

<colorpicker type="button">

A specialised type of color picker which shows only a button but when pressed, a popup will be displayed to select a color from.

<datepicker>

A set of text boxes which may be used to allow the entry of a date.

<datepicker type="grid">

A datepicker which displays a calendar grid for selecting a date.

<datepicker type="popup" >

A datepicker which displays a set of text boxes for date entry, but also has a button for displaying a popup calendar grid.

<description>

The description element is used for descriptive text.

<groupbox>

A groupbox displays a labelled box around other user interface controls.

<filefield>

Allows the user to select a file.

<image>

An image specified by a URL.

<label>

A label is used to create text which labels a nearby control.

<listbox>

The listbox is used to select an item from a list of labelled items.

<menulist>

A menulist (or combobox) is used to create a control with a dropdown to select a value.

<menulist editable="true">

An editable menulist is like a standard menulist except that the selected