

icon every time you see your iPhone/iPad and will be saved by the hassle of updating each app manually.

In order to turn this feature on, go to Settings > iTunes & App Store and under the Automatic Downloads tab select from Music, Apps, Books and also turn on the automatic downloads for updates. Although we'd suggest you use it over Wi-Fi, but if you have an unlimited data plan you can turn on the Use Cellular Data option as well. Another issue with it is that it drains your device's battery, despite Apple claiming that it is designed to be 'power-conscious'. So if you know that you'll be without a charger for a long time, it's best to disable this feature.

Auto update. Get it?

23. Wish List

We all have wish lists on imdb and flipkart of the things we want to watch or buy in future. It's a good idea to pass those flipkart wish lists to your friends when your birthday is coming.

With the same idea in mind, Apple has introduced Wish Lists for App Store and iTunes Store too. When you're browsing through them, and there's an app that you like or a song that you want to download later, you can click on the Share icon on the top and then tap on "Add to Wish List". The song or app will be saved for review later.

24. Message Timestamp

You must've noticed the absence of timestamp in iMessages now. In iOS 6, you would have seen some timestamps if not for all the messages. Like we said before, if you don't find something obvious and necessary, it's probably just a swipe away (which is strange in itself but whatever).
