

E-LEARNING APPS

E-Learning doesn't need you to hunker down at your desktop anymore. You can even educate yourself on the go with these nifty apps. Be sure to try them all.

Duolingo

Duolingo is a fantastic language learning tool, available as both an app and a website. There are no ads, no compulsory in app purchases to get ahead, no hidden fees. It is totally and completely free and promises it always will remain so.

Till date Duo lingo offers six languages –Spanish, Italian, English, Portuguese, German and French. Once you select the language you want to learn, you are presented with a learning tree of sorts. There are lessons which you go through in the form of tests. These tests consist of ten or so questions which you have to answer with the help provided. The questions are of many types and the app maintains a good balance between them. There are translations of sentences between languages, fill in the blanks, choose the correct option questions. There are even oral translations, and spoken translations. Some questions are pictorial to keep things interesting. If you answer a question wrongly you lose a 'life' or 'heart'. If you answer