

New Twitter rules

Twitter updates rules to prohibit bulk tweeting in a bid to fight spam bots on the network.
<http://dgit.in/TwitBotDie>

uTorrent vulnerability discovered

uTorrent and BitTorrent clients have been found to have a vulnerability that allows hijacking of PCs.
<http://dgit.in/uTRekt>

Apple
HomePod

Tweeters assemble

The HomePod truly delivers audio all around the cylindrical housing with the help of seven tweeters. Based upon the calibration done by the microphones, the tweeters output audio.

Filling the void

Due to the subwoofer on the top, a lot of vibration will be generated throughout the speaker. This can potentially damage or misalign the components on the power supply. To prevent any such problems, the empty spaces are filled with epoxy resin to dampen the vibrations.

Massive repair cost

Repairability is already low on the HomePod. If you wish to get the repairs done by Apple, then it will set you back by $279, plus $20 of shipping charges if applicable along with taxes. This means to officially repair your broken $349 HomePod, you will have to shell out almost $300.

Screen visualiser

The touchscreen on the top of the speaker is where you control the volume. It also lights up when Siri is activated. Along with an LED driver system, there's a diffuser that guides the light to the plus and minus symbol.

