CARDBOARD is a ubiquitous material that can be used for so many purposes other than just transporting stuff from point A to B. Here at Digit, the amount of cardboard we had lying around from product deliveries and online purchases was tremendous. Instead of just throwing it all away, we decided to put it to good use. Via the pages that follow, we hope to encourage your self-expression and creativity, using humble cardboard (and tech). We challenge you to make geekier DIYs, document them with photos and videos, and then share them with us, and the best of the lot will be showcased proudly to over two million of our social media followers, and also win surprise gifts. So what are you waiting for? Get famous!
