

Why pop culture aliens look similar

Although aliens can be imagined in weird and wonderful forms, they cannot look too strange if you want humans to relate to them <http://digit.in/alienpc>

The Shape of Water's perfect man

Guillermo del Toro scores a point when he indicates that the perfect man may not be a human. <http://digit.in/sowman>

POWERED EXOSKELETONS

Powered exoskeletons were worn by Matt Damon in Elysium and Tom Cruise in Edge of Tomorrow. The Exo Suits in Edge of Tomorrow essentially converted the soldiers into tanks on a battlefield, and could be equipped with a range of armaments. The exoskeletons used in Elysium are more intimate, as the brainwaves from the user are directly piped to controlling the exoskeletons. The suit is kind of a black market product, and was attached to the body after a brutal surgical process.

DELTA 6 ACCELERATOR SUIT

Prototypes of these cutting edge full body armours were worn by Duke and Ripcord in GI Joe: Rise of Cobra. The suits provide additional speed, agility and strength, with miniaturised weapons, like wrist mounted rocket launchers and mini guns.

CITY PROTECTIVE SERVICES SUIT

The CPS suit worn by Kiera Cameron in Continuum is form fitting but is packed with tech. It is bullet proof, fire proof, and provides invisibility or camouflage. It can also capable of hacking and nonlethal taser takedown.

AMPLIFIED MOBILITY PLATFORM

The AMP from Avatar is what happens when exoskeletons are developed to the extreme. The articulated fingers allows for the AMP to wield lots of weapons. The suit is built to operate in varied environments.

FIRST ORDER STORMTROOPER

The First Order Stormtroopers had upgraded suits, with more flexible kneecaps. Rank was denoted by shoulder plates:

FLAMETROOPER

Flametroopers were a specialised unit equipped with flame-throwers, with the fuel stored in tanks on their backs.

RIOT CONTROL TROOPER

The riot control troopers had betaplast shields and a non lethal tonfa that could resist lightsabers, and shock adversaries.

SNOWTROOPER

Snowtroopers had specialised equipment and armour that allowed them to operate smoothly in extremely frigid conditions.

CAPTAIN PHASMA

Captain Phasma has a unique chromium coated armour. The material was salvaged from Emperor Palpatine's ship.

