

PUBG's mysterious gold chests

PUBG's season 2 map has mysterious golden chests on the island that have been discovered by multiple players. <https://digit.in/jun18-A16-1>

Fasted Growing Black Hole found

Researchers at Australian National University have found the fastest growing supermassive black hole. <https://digit.in/jun18-A16-2>

Letter of the Month

*Complaint: Last month I posted an email to you and got no reply. I felt really bad.

Digit is clearly one of the best tech magazines out there. One of the things I like about your magazine is that it also gives us a monthly dose of science as well as tech.

I have created a full form of digit: D - Disruptively, I - Intelligent, G - Geeks, I - In, T - Technology.

My name is Adityan Singla (please refer to me as 'Adityan' not 'Aditya'. You have made this mistake before.) and I am an enthusiast in technology. Recently, as a kind of new year resolution, I have set a goal of learning ethical hacking by the end of this year. I need your help for the same. Can you suggest some good online courses for hacking? Remember that I am a total beginner at hacking. I have your September 2016 issue on hacking and also the Fast Track of June 2010 downloaded from the online archive. Anything else that you can provide/suggest?

Questions: I was browsing through your September 2016 issue when I came across 'LiFi' on page 138 in the list of vapourware. Well, you should know that this year in CES, LiFi really came out by name MyLiFi.

In your Sept 2016 issue, page 50, the technique listed in embrace your snakehood is not working in my Windows 10 laptop. I can't find the notepad. Where are digit centers located?

Complaints: In a recent issue Robert said about a survey that digit will hold which you guys didn't. BRING back Q/A! No contests held lately. Earlier in mobile madness, you used to have 9 games reviewed but now only 7 games? C'mon.

Suggestions: More boo man. Bring back tips and tricks and Q/A and give them as separate magazine like what skoar was.

Compliments: It was nice of you to move from game posters to other posters, but PLEASE don't provide car posters. Leave them to car magazines and provide posters on like quantum computers.

I liked the topic of the magazine. I like articles which show what the future can be. Please provide more of such articles (at least one per issue). There is lot to print on these articles as there are many interesting topics on it related to computers like hive mind, Meta universe etc.

Questions for Boo Man: If you hate everything, do you also hate digit? And yourself? Do you hate hating? If the answer to any of the above is no, then you cannot claim that you hate everything. I challenge you to boo CES.

-Adityan Singl

Hey Adityan,

Sorry we missed your previous email.

To be honest, anything we teach you about hacking will be far, far behind what real hackers are doing because what real hackers are doing is not documented. Our Fast Tracks are that perfect base to start from, however, if you are truly serious about this, you need to know your way around languages, and explore a lot of Open Source code to understand how things work. It also depends on what you're looking to ethically hack, because as you know, the skills to come up with systems hacks are very different from the ones used to do website hacks. Become an expert in those, your next steps will be very clear to you.

Questions: We're aware of MyLiFi, and honestly we think it's more a gimmick than a real option right now. the problem with these "new" technologies is that they're often hyped. We still stand by our judgement of LiFi being a flop.

Notepad is accessed by clicking on the link to the local privacy statement, which launches in notepad. there should be two links, one is an online link, and one will be x:\windows\system32\... the second one is the one you click on to launch notepad. We are located at Mumbai and Noida.

Complaints: That's the reader survey, and we will be conducting it soon. We don't honestly get as many troubleshooting emails as before which are not easily solvable by a Google search. These guys hate mobile games, even 7 is tough to get them to do.

Suggestions: No, no. We can't handle more of his negativity, it would drive us insane. Ouch, not happening. Tips and Tricks is renamed to Level-up, with a slightly different feel.

Compliments: That's actually a poster sponsored by our AutoTech section, without it we'd have to have no poster! June should bring back a gaming poster as well.

Answers from Booman: Of course I hate Digit! Any other job I'd just quit if the Ed called me at midnight just to get an email answered, but because this darn place is so special, and everyone goes so much above and beyond what's normal at a workplace, it's hard to even be mad. And that pisses me off. Call it a love hate relationship... one where you love something so much you hate what it does to you! Everything. Every. Single. Thing!

You mean that ridiculous annual exhibition where everyone hops along together merrily pretending that they've changed the world, when all they've done is slap on a new name to an old tech? The one where all products are <insert superlative adjective that's the buzzword of the minute>, and yet only a handful even survive to become real products? The one where everything will "blow your mind", and yet the only thing that will actually blow my mind is if CES 2019 decides to be honest for once, and say: We've not really got anything new this year, except under 10 percent improvements on most things, and yet you will pay us a hefty attendance fee, ridiculous prices for staying in seedy hotels, while live streaming to your audiences about what a great time you're having, and how great we are!

-Robert & Booman

