Comparing every part of leg3start with the start pages of leg1 and leg2 since last night. Except for the use of Capital L, I find nothing. Its driving me bonkers

– Enkidu

Couldn't get ahead after first 2 clues. That "portrait" of "her" one. The year mentioned doesn't ring any bell. Answers too broad to just guess. I think this CTC is not for me. -_-

– Vyom

Can someone explain how the final ranking system works? Do I have to participate in all legs? I missed the first 2 legs (and the magazine leg).

Letter of the Month

Hey Team Digit, It has now been a year since I have been reading your magazine. I fell in love with the magazine when I first read it at a magazine stall on a Railway Station in the year 2016. Since then I have been a constant reader of the magazine.

First of all, the best thing you guys did was Adding both Car and Game poster. I have two separate rooms where I stick them on the walls and I have around 12 of the games and 3 of the cars. The games poster room looks amazing all thanks to you guys. :-)

Second, When I completed the MOD Everything edition I was like "Thank God I did not build my rig yet" and next thing I was doing was reading the Ultimate Buyers Guide and working my way out to get the best part for my new rig. The guide was really great to the point, had easy language and used the correct terminology for everything which made everything clear as glass.

Third, the dymistify are always legendary I don't have the correct word to express them. Fastrack was also good and it happened that my friend called me the day I got the magazine and he wanted to install custom ROM on his old Samsung Galaxy phone. I told him about the magazine and in the next few hours we were busy discussing it.

Fourth, there are few points where the magazine can improve.

There were few words in my buying guide that were not visible or not printed correctly. I know it's not your mistake but just look out for the errors in printing and improve. Next, is humor, you guys were funny AF when I started out reading the magazine but the slope really went down after that edition.

Fifth, I think you guys could add a fact section and this month's tech news section.

I have been working on my rig and I have a budget of 1.5 lakh (Saving sine last 4 years) I have already got up with the monitor, HDD, keyboard, and mouse. Its a gaming + workstation build. I'd love to have your expert advice on it.

I found all the editions before that on the archive. I want to be roboticist and I believe one should have known not only in his field but, also in almost all fields.

Waiting for more awesome stuff from you guys and keep that spirit up. Readers are the true soul of a magazine and in the way you guys are successful in pleasing the readers, I believe that I'll be still reading Digit when I am in my 90s. Though I am only 16 now :P. "May you live long and prosper." (Star Trek guys will know).

P.S.- I hope to see this letter in the next edition. I had to gain a ton of courage before writing this

– Mudit Lal

Hey Mudit, Good to hear from you, and wow, what a letter.

We're blown away by the praise, and will be floating on cloud 9 for a few days at least.

It's so awesome to hear from readers who really appreciate the work we put into our content. Of course we can always improve, and we're still very, very far from being where we want to be, but it's important to get encouragement along the way. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for your kind words.

Mithun will respond with expert advice about your PC rig config... just give him a day or two though, as he's currently flying back after a hectic week at COMPUTEX Taipei.

Although it's still early days, and we have many more letters that will come in to us this month, I'm pretty sure you're the #1 candidate for letter of the month. :-)

Please NEVER hesitate to write to us, and I do not see any reason for you to need to build up any courage to write to us at all!!!

We love hearing from you guys, so just drop us a line when you feel the urge to do so. OK?

– Robert
