

Fortnite installer security flaw

The Android installer had a security flaw in it that would allow a hacker to essentially install any software they wanted. <https://digit.in/sep18-27-1>

UK Phone giant security flaw

For the second time in same week, UK phone giant EE fixed a security lapse, which allowed access to an internal site. <https://digit.in/sep18-27-2>

Bundle, Premium Bundle and Luxury Bundle. The basic bundle includes all the household essentials like linen, cutlery, kitchenware, cooking stove and cleaning equipment which are thoughtfully marketed as 'packs'. The user can choose to include or exclude any packs based on their requirements. The Luxury bundle includes the same packs but has more variety. The user can select single or double pack, based on their requirement. Borriya Bistar claim to provide hassle free, same day delivery to the customers. A smart way of using technology to solve an age old problem.

THE HAPPY FEET

In today's busy and stressful world, people often neglect healthcare and bodycare. This startup hits this issue at the ground level, quite literally, by providing healthcare and medical attention to the customer's feet. In the words of Johny Stephen, Founder of thehappyfeet, "Today, thehappyfeet is the brand that provides foot care services in the comfort of one's home or office via a 'call later'. thehappyfeet becomes the platform that provides wellness services at home or office via a click." They have centres in cities like Bengaluru, Chennai, Salem as well as Sri Lanka. As explained on their website, they aim to tackle feet issues with range of treatments for example custom made orthotics which were specifically 3D modelled for rehabilitation. They provide treatment to problems such as flat feet, tilted pelvis, heel pain etc. They also have a detailed action plan for sport injuries. Most working people in metropolitan cities seldom have the time in their busy lives to visit chiropractors or spas. This niche startup takes a successful hit at solving this problem by bringing the service to your doorstep.

This startup bring foot therapy at your doorstep

JOINMYWEDDING

You don't know India until you attend an Indian wedding. Weddings are huge in India. People spend unbelievable amounts of money to make their special day even more so. In this endeavour, some wedding hosts are kind enough to send wedding invites to foreigners so they get a first hand experience of the big fat Indian wedding. This is a great opportunity for travellers who want to get a glimpse at the grandeur of Indian marriages. It works for the hosts as well who volunteer to let people from other cultures experience their big day. It provides a great experience for people from different cultures to mingle with Indian locals and immerse themselves in Indian culture. Indian couples make online profiles and add pictures and descriptions for their wedding, to which interested people apply to be a part of. This startup has been covered by BBC and Forbes and is an ingenious way of providing a win-win scenario for both the involved parties. Ironically, this startup is the brainchild of Orsi Parkanyi, who happens to be an Australian. Orsi is an avid entrepreneur and is the sole founder of Women as Entrepreneurs, Australia's largest community for female entrepreneurs and startup women. This story is an elegant example of how one successfully taps into the needs and demands of society, however niche it might be, and makes a business out of it.

There is something about Indian weddings that make them a charming attraction worldwide

CARICME

If you find nothing amusing or striking about your facial features, you can always put that theory to test by having a good caricature artist sketch you and you will surely be proven wrong. That is the power of art and caricatures. A good caricature artist can exaggerate a person's features to an almost comical extent. Seeing your own caricature is a joyful experience

The art of making caricatures has been around since hundred of years, aging back to medieval times because you end up looking at yourself from someone else's perspective. Creating caricatures is nothing new and has been around for hundreds of years. However, what's new is getting a truly personalized micro caricature of yourself or someone else done and delivered to you at your doorstep. Artists Reetesh Rao, Rajesh Acharya and Kotresh Chatraki decided to bring their art to people through their startup 'Caricme' which provides users with an opportunity to get their caricatured self printed onto various kinds of merchandise like mugs, posters, magnets, cards for a personalised touch on everyday items etc.

Users can select from a variety of humorous and thoughtful templates and get a truly personalized caricature delivered to them at their doorstep. Caricme boasts a less than 0.5% rejection rate and are truly proud of what they have created. You can visit their website or order caricatures from websites like Amazon.in, Snapdeal etc. Either ways, you'll end up with something that will be personalised along with being a product of ingenious thinking from some of India's most innovative yet artistically inclined minds to keep the art of caricature alive. 