

FANTASTIC BEASTS AND WHERE TO FIND THEM

THUNDERBIRD

USA

The thunderbird is a large bird from Native American folklore, and can often be found represented on the totem poles

WATER MONKEY

USA

Water monkeys are frogs that walk on two legs. Variants include the Japanese Kappa and the British Grindylow.

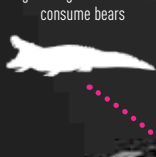

GIANT SALTWATER

CROCODILE

United States

A family of giant saltwater crocodiles inhabits Lake Placid, and the adults are large enough to attack and consume bears

WALRUS-DOG

Greenland

This creature lives among walrus and is powerful enough to kill a man with its tail and is locally called the Az'-i-wu-gum Ki-mukh'-ti

FAFNIR

Iceland

Fafnir was originally a dwarf who was corrupted by his greed and transformed into a dragon to guard his gold

LOCH NESS MONSTER

Scotland

A pseudoscientific explanation of the Loch Ness monster, or Nessie, is that it is a surviving plesiosaur or ichthyosaur

KRAKEN

Norway

The giant cephalopod said to be capable of wrecking ships may just originate from exaggerated accounts of giant squid sightings

YUKON BEAVER EATER

Canada

The beaver eater is said to be bigger than a grizzly bear, and would gobble up beavers after flipping their lodges

BIGFOOT

USA

Also known as the Sasquatch, this bipedal giant ape is at times considered to be a remnant from prehistoric times

GODZILLA

French Polynesia

Godzilla is considered the king of monsters, and the original Japanese name, Gōjira is a combination of gorilla and whale

CTHULHU

Pacific Ocean

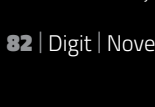

Ph'nglui mglw'nafh Cthulhu R'lyeh wgah'nagl fhtagn

ALICANTO

Chile

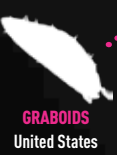

The bird has glowing eyes, eats gold or silver from mines, is coloured according to its diet, and at times eats too much to fly

SHARKTOPUS

United States

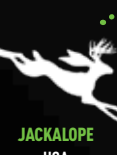

The Sharktopus is a weaponised creature gone rogue, spliced from the DNA of a shark and an octopus

GRABOIDS

United States

The graboids are ancient prehistoric sand worms with an insatiable hunger, that inhabit the deserts of Nevada

JACKALOPE

USA

The Jackalope is essentially a rabbit with elongated legs and deer horns. Taxidermists have created several hoax specimens

GIANT ANACONDA

The Amazon

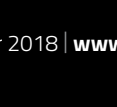

The unusually large anaconda showed some intelligence, and was seen devouring at least three people

EL CUERO

Argentina

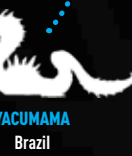

The hairless primitive stingray is a swamp monster and there are accounts of the creature eating babies

YACUMAMA

Brazil

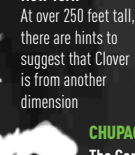

The Yacumama lives near the mouth of the Amazon and is the mother of all sea creatures, swallowing everything that approaches

CLOVER

New York

At over 250 feet tall, there are hints to suggest that Clover is from another dimension

CHUPACABRA

The Caribbean

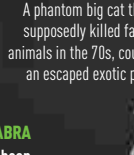

The chupacabra is a cryptid with varying descriptions. There are stories of the cryptid mutilating and consuming livestock.

BEAST OF BODMIN

England

A phantom big cat that supposedly killed farm animals in the 70s, could be an escaped exotic pet

BASILISK

Libya

The basilisk is the king of serpents which leaves a trail of poison in its wake and can cause instant death with a single glance

MULILO SLUG

Congo

These are giant six foot long slugs with poisonous breath, can be baited with roosters, and only appear when there is a rainbow in the sky

PHOENIX

Egypt

Even the ancient Greeks were skeptical of the existence of this immortal bird that died in a fireball and was born from its own ashes

NINKI NANKA

West Africa

The Ninki Nanka is a large and dangerous monster that grabs hold of disobedient children in West Africa

THE THING

Antartica

The Thing is an ancient shapeshifting alien organism that can mimic the appearance of other creatures

INKANYAMBA

South Africa

This legendary serpent, at times said to have a horse's head, is believed to be responsible for the storms in the region

IMPUNDULU

South Africa

This is a bloodthirsty bird that can summon lightning and thunder with its wings and talons, so basically a Zaptos

