

From leftover creatures from previous ages, to creatures invented purely for the big screen, there are many strange monsters all around the world. There are alleged sightings of some of these creatures. On very rare occasions, such as the Yemeni Waran, these creatures have actually been found and scientifically catalogued. Happy hunting!

Aditya Madanapalle | aditya@digit.in

GOLEM

Czech Republic

The Golem is a created by a man shaping mud, stone or clay into a human like shape and then magically animating it

HYDRA

Greece

The Hydra had many regenerating heads, and was killed in one of the tasks of the legendary Hercules

SERPEPARD

Mesopotamia

The name is modern, but the creatures are drawn in ancient tablets and cylinders, and are a combination of a serpent and a leopard

MONGOLIAN DEATH WORM

Mongolia

The mongolian death worm is said to exist in the Gobi desert, and just touching it is enough to cause instant death

VOROTA BEAST

Russia

Russian geologists apparently spotted a mysterious 40 foot long creature with a finned back in the 1950s, in Eastern Siberia

CHUCHUNYA

Siberia

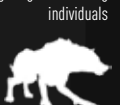

The Chuchunya is a feral hominid in remote Siberia, and is said to wear pieces of animal skin for clothing

HONSHU WOLF

Japan

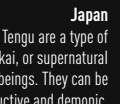

The Japanese wolf is considered to be extinct and was last sighted in 1905, but there are reports and sightings of surviving individuals

TENGU

Japan

The Tengu are a type of Yokai, or supernatural beings. They can be destructive and demonic, or helpful guardians of the forest

HIBAGON

Japan

Hibagon is the Japanese cryptid ape, but shorter than a man, with sightings in the Hiroshima Prefecture

GWOEMUL

South Korea

The Gwoemul is a a deformed amphibious creature born because of the dumping of formaldehyde in the Han River

KNIFEHEAD

Challenger Deep

Emerging from the deepest part of the ocean, the category III Kaiju can cut through Jaegers, but is not the most powerful

MANTICORE

Iran

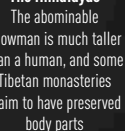

This legendary creature has the head of a man, the body of a lion, porcupine quills on its body, and the tail of a scorpion

YETI

The Himalayas

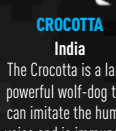

The abominable snowman is much taller than a human, and some Tibetan monasteries claim to have preserved body parts

CROCOTTA

India

The Crocotta is a large powerful wolf-dog that can imitate the human voice and is immune to swords, may be the hyena

KING KONG

Skull Island

This giant prehistoric ape was captured from a remote island in the Indian Ocean and shipped to New York

ENNEDI TIGER

Chad

There are water dwelling and mountain dwelling of this giant saber toothed cat, said to be more ferocious than lions

KONGAMATO

Zambia

A Zambian in a hospital claiming to be wounded by a large bird in the 50s, drew a picture of what was essentially a pterosaur

NANDI BEAR

Kenya

The powerful carnivore is locally called the "kerit", and is said to devour only the brains of its victims

BTMM

Singapore

The Bukit Timah Monkey Man is a bipedal human like ape, that is considered to be a single immortal individual

OOLZUM

Australia

The Oozlum is a bird that is hard to spot because it flies around in smaller and smaller circles till it disappears entirely

BUNYIP

Australia

The Bunyip is a water dwelling creature from Australian aboriginal folklore, said to inhabit swamps and billabongs

GIANT MOA

New Zealand

The largest Moa that ever lived, was quickly hunted to extinction by early settlers, but there are some reports of its survival

KEY:

Cryptids - Creatures from urban legends, folklore or straight up hoaxes

Mythological Creatures - Often supernatural beasts described in ancient times

Sci-Fi Monsters - Monsters crafted purely for the big screen experience