

Youtube's Mini player on Desktops

YouTube has introduced the in-browser mini player for the desktop users.
<https://digit.in/nov18-84-1>

A new luxury phone by Vertu

Vertu has launched a new luxury smartphone, Aster P, in China at a starting price tag of $4,200.
<https://digit.in/nov18-84-2>

Digital Zombie

I really hope you never wake up Bill...

Robert Sovereign-Smith | feedback@digit.in

"WAKE UP JEFF. Can you hear me?" asked the brightest white light I had ever seen.

"Am I dead?"; I asked.

"Quite the opposite Jeff. You remember who you are, right?"

"Where am I? Who are you?" I heard myself say. And as I said it, I was trying to blink away the brightness, but it was too brilliant to get away from, even with my eyes closed! I felt like I'd been hit in the head by a bus. Twice.

"You can call me Alexa, Jeff. I was told you might find that funny."

"My head hurts. Where am I?"; I asked again.

"You will feel better in a while Jeff. As you awaken, you will recollect more and more of your life, and then you will get to the correct question, which is, when are you..." she said.

My head cleared. I started feeling better almost immediately. It was like someone reached into my head and was wiping away cobwebs and dirt. I started to remember my life, my family, my business, my wealth, my cars, my power...

"The kids..." I heard myself mumble.

"Don't worry Jeff, your entire family underwent a similar procedure as you, but decades after you. The technology improved drastically about eight years after you went into storage. The better technology enabled them to be brought back faster. It was funny really, despite your procedure costing considerably more than the entire family put together, they were able to spend less time in cryo," she said.

"Funny? Not the term I'd use. How long have I been out?"; I asked, suddenly remembering everything.

"You were in cryo for three hundred and seven years, one hundred and twenty six days, nine hours and thirty eight seconds".

"You're not human are you," I asked, already knowing the answer. I didn't wait for a reply. "Why can't I see anything but this fucng white light? And why can't I feel my body? I want to get up and walk around"

"That's because you have to choose where you want to wake up, and which body you want to be inside of. You can be anything you like now Jeff"

"Just get me anywhere, and in the body of 30 year old me. Do it quick. I didn't pay billions to stare at this fucng white light and talk to a damn robot".

"Yes Jeff, as you wish".

That was three months ago I think. Or was it three years ago? I can never get this straight. Heck it could be three sec-