WHAT'S NEW

Black Panther makes superhero movie history

Over time, superhero movies have received recognition in the Academy Awards in various categories.

However, it never got to see the light in the top category of awards. That changes now as Black Panther has become the first superhero movie to be nominated for Best Picture. Apart from this milestone for superhero movies, the movie also received nominations in Sound Editing, Sound Mixing, Production Design, Original Score, Original Song and Costume Design. During an interview with Entertainment Weekly, Marvel Studios President Kevin Feige said, "It's the most important recognition that a film can receive in our industry. That's not lost on any of us. It's something that's immensely gratifying. As the numerous phone calls and text messages [show] that went back and forth between all of us who were lucky enough to work on the film, it is just pride."

New cast for Batwoman

The CW has been working on the upcoming series of Batwoman after her introduction in the Elseworlds Crossover event. Filming is yet to begin but we got to know three major characters that are going to be seen joining Batwoman aka Kate Kane. The new cast is as follows: Meagan Trady as Sophie Moore, Camrus Johnson as Luke Fox and Nicole Kang as Mary Hamilton. For the uninitiated, Moore is a highly skilled private security agent who used to be a military academy graduate.

According to the comics, Kate and Moore were in a relationship but we don't know whether the same is going to be adapted in the series. Luke Fox is the son of Lucius Fox and we all know how important he is to Batman and to Bruce Wayne as well. With the responsibility of keeping Wayne Tower secure, he also wants to protect the legacy of Batman. Later on, Luke joins the Batman family and becomes Batwing in the comics. Finally, Mary is Kate's talkative step-sister who has a deep compassion for Gotham's disadvantaged citizens. Details at this point are scarce but considering how kickass Ruby Rose was as Batwoman, we are looking forward to seeing more of her adventures in Gotham.
