>> FEEDBACK FOR THE MARCH 2019 ISSUE OF DIGIT

Send your feedback at editor@digit.in

 Hey Digitians, it's me Nayan (Um, you still remember me right?) Thank you so so (so*999) much for making me the letter of the month for Feb 2019 (I was so excited about it) you guys are awesome. It really taxed my nerves to write to you guys, but it paid off. This letter is basically for suggestions (yeah I have a few left) + a reply.

Suggestions:

1. You already have a fantastic magazine, but make the official site (digit.in) a little cleaner.
2. Can you please focus on some better Gaming solutions for low end potato devices in your magazine. (not everyone is a millionaire);)
3. I loved the DIY projects you recently did, but you discontinued them (Why !?!). It was actually fun! So please get them back. Also am awaiting the Anime suggestions to be implemented upon.
4. I discussed about becoming a game developer lately, so please devote a guiding article about it.

Thanks for your hard work, and a cheer for Sudhir bhaiya for bearing with me till now : P

Now for the reply:

1. I don't have a problem sharing my email address with people who can really help me out regarding my dream job (Thank you Digit for considering my privacy). I know this letter will be published so please let people know that they are more than welcome to have a conversation or two with me at - nayanpanda5963@gmail.com

2. Thanks to Archit for letting me know that like minded people really exist, we sure will make a great team in the future.
3. Can I have some way to directly converse with the digit members? I really look forward to seek some advice from them as well.

Best of luck in your journey towards being the best tech and gaming magazine of the world.

Ps. Can Someone win a mystery gift more than once? :-)

-Nayan Panda

 A redesigned site is just a few weeks away. We will try and implement your suggestions. As for conversing with Team Digit, maybe we should start a WhatsApp group for subscribers of the magazine to interact with Team Digit? If you guys like that, write in and vote for it, and we'll start one. You can also use the Facebook pages to message us, and of course email is something we always eventually get to replying. Also, our apologies to Archit, we screwed up on the last line of his letter when editing it. He said he wanted to make amazing games that we at team digit "would not regret playing" (we edited that to "not want to play" for some silly reason!). Our apologies Archit.

 Hi, I'm Naveen and a couple of day back I came across one of your books called "Digit Dmystify". Such a marvelous book and I was addicted in a few minutes and went through each and every line of it. The way you guys explaining things from scratch to a professional level, it's mind-blowing. Could you please tell me how I can get previous editions of those magazines. I want read all your previous editions of dmystify. How can I do this? Thanks in advance!

-Naveen Kumar

 Hi Naveen (and anyone else who has a similar query), just drop an email to archive@digit.in and you will get an auto-response that will tell you how to access past versions in PDF format. Print editions get sold out pretty quick, so you will have to make do with PDFs instead. Subscribing to the mag is a good way to make sure you get all the print editions, which are a much easier read.

 Dear Team Digit, First of all, Happy Holi to you guys. I am Pranay Chauhan from Grade 8. I have just started to read your magazine, and I can't tell you how much I love them. Your reviews of products are outstanding, and I love games so much that I read your reviews on games very carefully. This subscription was given to me by my brother as a gift and I am quite happy he did so. So I would like to ask some questions.

In your December Mag, you guys conducted a Zero1 award but we don't want to sell our organs right!! So I would like you guys to conduct a budget award. This will be quite helpful in buying products that we can actually afford.

And also I have founded some spelling mistakes in your old mag so
