please try to reduce them. The Games that you seed in DVDs are not interesting. So send games like GTA or any old version of Hitman as these games are interesting and are worth playing. Finally, I would like to say that you are doing a very good job and keep improving yourself in the future also.

d Hi Pranay, we are also thankful to your brother for trusting us to provide you the right knowledge as you mature into an uber-geek. It's a responsibility we do not take lightly. A happy belated Holi (because of when this mag will come out) to you and all of our readers. We will certainly try and implement your suggestions. We do have recommended buys for most budgets in our killer rig and top 3 segments, but we will see what we can do to inform our readers about more value for money offerings. As for the games, we're not allowed to provide full versions of older games, as that's considered piracy, but we will try and find more interesting games for you to play.

I have been reading Digit since its inception as Chip, and boy does it solve tech problems. I like everything about Digit, even if I come across some flaws (occasionally), it rectifies by asking us (the readers). Almost every Digit reader before purchasing a tech product seeks your suggestions (that includes me as well). Digit team has never let me or the readers down. I am from North-East India and one time I had a dire need of your assistance so I sent my query. Because I thought that I'm from the far end of the country, my mail might not be acknowledged by the Digit Team. To my utter joy I got your reply and my problem was solved (Hard Disk Recovery). And then I thought those guys at Digit go through each and every mail and try their best to solve readers problems. The level of my loyalty towards Digit and the respect for Digit team grew even more.

I must admit the column "wolves in sheep's clothing" from February issue by Executive Editor, Sir Robert was not normal, but I appreciate his honesty. This is the first time I've seen someone admitting to the brutality of the corporate world, which touched me a lot. Hardly anyone in this dog-eat-dog world does that. No wonder he sleeps like a baby.

I have a few requests for articles:

1. How to host/create your own Radio stations? Like Podcast or F.M.
2. How does it work if one wants to monetize it?
3. How to build an entry-level gaming rig (with water cooling)?

Last but not least, thank you Team Digit, you guys really made our life easy to deal with technology.

We wish we had the time to reply to every single email we get, but it would be a lie to claim that we do. We are trying to improve that, however. We're just glad that we were able to help you in your time of need. We will try and implement your suggestions very soon, in the next few months, because we think quite a few readers would like to know those things.

Letter of the Month

A few words for last month's mag. Last month magazine was amazing as usual but the cover story was no use to me as I use iOS (Alert:!!! Apple fanboy!!!). Otherwise the articles were really nice especially the "Science fiction to science fact" one – it was nice to finally see some mind-blowing tech come to life. Really liked the reevu of RE2 and Apex legends. The article on alkaloids sure did help a lot. Foldable phones...what can I say about them, wait i can say something they Fking SUCK!. Next time maybe some iOS hacks plz?

Boo-Man rocks! I mean no matter how much you love a thing Boo-Man can make you hate it. As for the top three section the choices are always on the money though have you guys heard of a small out of the world company called ALIENWARE, they sort of make laptops? Can you ask what is IFIXIT's problem, what do they have against Apple products and if they have so much money to burn, I'll be more than happy to give them my address for whatever they discard.

Boo-Man should try writing reviews. I bet they would be great. How about a Fast Track on Ubisoft or Alienware? Please try playing NBA 2K series, you might like it. I think you should stop the DVDs because my laptop or pc doesn't even have a DVD reader – I have to go to a friends' house to copy all the data on a pendrive. More articles by Dhriti, really loved her style of writing. So thats pretty much it I'll be waiting for a reply, and it was nice speaking to you Mithun.

—Zorawar Mavi

We actually like the teardowns by iFixit, as we take as much pleasure in the insides of an iPhone as the outsides. The logic board is just about the densest among all smartphones, and the battery configuration is really innovative, as you might know. And yes, Dhriti will be joining the team again in a couple of months, so you can look forward to reading more articles by her. We hope you'll write to us again.
