More talktime

The AirPods 2 claim 50% more talktime over the first gen AirPods. That should mostly be powered by software optimisation since it sports the same 93 milliwatt-hour battery as its predecessor. Competitors sport much bigger alternatives.

Liquid protection

The logic board for wireless charging this time around has a coating of liquid-resistant material, which means that the case can perhaps survive a splash or two. The Broadcom 59356A2KUBC is the wireless charging module onboard.

Same old same old

Just like the AirPods, the battery in their case has also received no upgrade. It is still a Model A1596—running at 3.81 V and 398 mAh, for 1.52 Wh. This is actually more than the competing Galaxy buds as well as its own Series 4 Apple Watch.
