

Internet challenge incoming!

The Cockroach Challenge which involves taking a selfie with cockroaches on your face. <https://digit.in/june19-35>

DroneBullet

DroneBullet is a kamikaze drone missile that is capable of knocking out enemy UAVs in the sky. <https://digit.in/june19-31>

alt

1000 WORDS

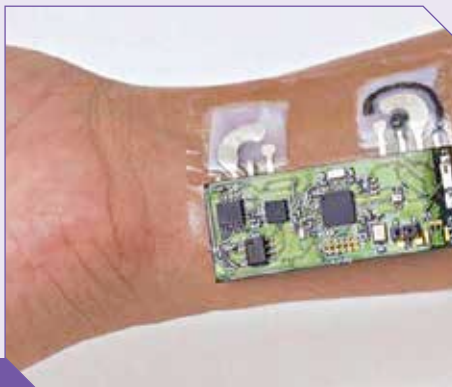

This patch from Gatorade changes colours depending on how dehydrated you are, alerting you that you need to drink more water.

This is an acoustic sensor that can probe the body to check for the health of the heart, how the lungs are functioning, vocal cord activity and the condition of the stomach.

This tattoo developed by researchers at the University of California monitors the body for alcohol content in the blood in a quick, cheap and non invasive manner

This tattoo developed by researchers at Tel Aviv University can read facial expressions and measure muscle as well as nerve activity

This gold nanowire based tattoo was designed by researchers from The University of Tokyo, and provides long term health monitoring.

These smart tattoos developed by MIT and Harvard can change colour based on the application - to inform athletes that they are dehydrated, or diabetics about high sugar levels.

University of Minnesota researchers have come up with a technique of 3D printing circuitry directly on the human skin, which can keep up even if the person moves a bit Dermal and sub-dermal displays are already being tested, which can control devices or simple watches. Some of them can even use your blood as an energy source.

