

digit diary

If you are ever curious about what the Digit gang is up to, this is the place to get all the inside info. From the latest game we're obsessing about to the newest intern we're driving up the wall – it's all here folks.

This month, Robert came down to the Mumbai office from Australia. Dhriti and Manish are also back on the team, which meant that the Digit office was more crowded than usual. The food delivery app guys were kept busy throughout the month, as the entire team ate like Hobbits. The team tried out some tabletop games including Catan and Azul. The favourite by far was Anomia, which requires you to think on your feet and come up with that hard to find word. During these gaming sessions, things got pretty intense, with Dhriti hurling curses at the rest of the team at eardrum shattering decibel levels. The team also discovered the wonders of Psych! which requires people to invent definitions of words, or come up with words that could possibly exist but do not. Over the month, everyone came up with quite a few sniglets, enough to write a brand new dictionary. Then Raaabo revived the age old Digit tradition of playing Quake III

Arena. The older readers will remember that this section of the magazine used to frequently document the trials and tribulations of the team playing Quake III. Everyone had shiny new computers, and this is a game that was released twenty years ago, when monitors still mostly had the 4:3 aspect ratio. The team had to scramble to find a fix to get everything up and running, when finally Mithun came up with the necessary addition to the shortcut (`+set r_fullscreen "1" +set r_customaspect "1" +set r_customwidth "1920" +set r_customheight "1080" +set r_mode "-1"`). The map that was played was of course DM17. Dhriti and Manish were the nubs who were struggling to kill anything. Mithun's desk tends to accumulate all kinds of bleeding edge devices, which leaves little room for his mouse to move about. To compensate, the sensitivity is insanely high, which handicapped him in the game. Aditya was one of the older players so he knew his way around the map and still knew his way around the rocket launcher. Raaabo was zipping past everyone and easily got the highest kill count, which is not surprising. Others in the team might have moved on to newer games, but Raaabo still loves the oldies, and was probably practicing Quake III all these years in Australia. The domination by Raaabo was so absolute that eventually he took pity on the rest of the team and decided to only run about the map and steal the pickups without killing anyone. If only Rossi were here, then Raaabo would have his "ass kicked" (Raaabo's words, not ours).

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

"Imagine what would happen to you all if I took Quad Damage"

- Raaabo

DISCUSSIONS

Every month we will highlight some of the more interesting discussions happening on our Digit Forum (digit.in/forum). Head over and join our forum if you want quick answers to your queries from some of the geekiest Indians online. In case you love giving gyaan, or even if you love arguing with others, the Forum is the place you should be.

DAC Suggestions

<https://digit.in/cheapdac>

Nerevarine is on the hunt for an affordable DAC (Digital-to-analog converter) that costs less than 5K, and maybe there is some way that he can use the Raspberry Pi that he got for free.

Samsung M30

<https://digit.in/samm30>

The Samsung M30 has almost everything going for it, 6GB RAM, 128 GB memory, 5K mAh battery, and a 3.5 mm jack all for 18k but the Xiaomi wins because it has an IR blaster and an FM radio as well.

Google blocks Huawei

<https://digit.in/gvh>

The forum members discuss the ban on US companies from dealing with Huawei and the escalation of the so called trade war between the US and China, and what it means for us consumers.

Join the discussions at:

Web: geek.digit.in | Forum: geek.digit.in/community | Facebook: facebook.com/digitgeek