

04 WALNUT

Walnut for Android is a money management app that allows you to keep track of your spending. The app tracks your expenditure automatically by reading your SMS or 'Biz messages' as they call it. It does not ask for any other information like your bank account number or card details. Walnut allows you to set a budget, track expenditures in different categories such as food, groceries, shopping and you can manually track cash spent by feeding information into the app. You can see monthly graphs of your expenditure, and monitor your spending. Additionally, by allowing the money tracker access to your SMS, it automatically traces the bills you need to pay and sends you timely reminders for the same. That's not all. The app has multiple functionalities like Credit Card payments, checking bank balance without data, splitting bills with friends, transferring money to friends using BHIM UPI and finding ATMs nearby. Walnut combines the functions of multiple apps in one, which is why kids these days swear by it.

Platforms: Android (Available on iOS as WalnutPay with lesser functions)

05 PAPER RACING

This is a ridiculous game. Ridiculously addictive, we mean! Paper racing by Elite Games has a dead simple premise - finish the roll of toilet paper within the fastest time possible. You need to drag the toilet paper off its roll using the simple swipe down gesture rather furiously to achieve maximum speed. It features both Single Mode, and Multiple Mode, where you can challenge other players to beat your score. It is the sort of game that kids play under the desk in schools, colleges or even universities while a boring lecture goes on in the background. (Don't do this, kids, education is important).

Platform: Android

06 POCKET

It is quite a usual occurrence that you find an interesting article you really want to read but simply don't have the time to do it right away. Pocket allows you to save all such articles offline so that you can read them any time, anywhere. You can save articles on any device (Firefox browser has Pocket in-built but you will need to download the Pocket extension for other browsers) and any platform to Pocket. The app even lets you listen to articles if you don't want to read them yourself. The voice has been worked on quite a bit to make it sound less robotic. It even has a feature for discovery which aggregates popular articles from various websites in a tab called 'Best of web'.

Platforms: Android and iOS

07 GLITCHÉ

Glitché is a photo and video editing app that is extremely popular with the kids these days because of the 'trippy' effects it has. The app allows you to create pieces of psychedelic digital art that are warped or distorted in some way. Glitché houses more than thirty tools to create digital glitches, colour distortions, 3D transformations and more. The app allows you to export your digital art to Adobe Photoshop or Creative Cloud as well. This app is used extensively by Gen Z to up their Instagram game to achieve that elusive 'Instagram aesthetic'. The app is paid but Ariana Grande using this very app for her song '7 Rings' may give you the incentive to purchase it... or not.

The Glitché app

Eitherways, try out the app. It's quite unique and lets you unleash your creative juices and come up with some great/weird looking pictures or videos.

Platform: iOS

08 DINEOUT

Dineout is a restaurant reservation app that is in direct competition with apps like Swiggy and Zomato. So, you can use the app for things such as viewing restaurant menus, reviews, photos and reserve a seat. However, what differentiates it is the great discounts it offers you with its Gourmet Pass for varying costs in different cities. This pass can get you discounts such as 50 per cent off on buffets, 50 per cent off on food or drinks in a restaurant and 1+1 offers on the same in over 9,000 restaurants across the country. The app is popular since it offers Buy One Get One buffet in quite a few expensive or 5-star restaurants. Kids even use Dineout Pay, the in-app payment option that allows them to earn great cash back in addition to the discounts.

09 TIMEHOP

Timehop is an app that makes you nostalgic every single day of the year. The app brings you all your memories dating back years by aggregating your photos, videos, statuses and updates from your phone and social media accounts. It's like #tbt every single day. It allows you to compare a 'Then and Now', share your old memories and decorate the memories with frames. It makes old acquaintances and friends reconnect by sharing great (or embarrassing) stories. It's kind of like the Facebook Memories feature but it brings you nostalgic moments from multiple platforms instead of just one.

10 RUNPEE

People with tiny bladders must have felt the pain while watching the recent behemoth film, Avengers: End Game which was ridiculously long at 3 hours and 5 minutes. Even the usual hour and a half can be laborious when you really
