

need to go. RunPee is an app made for people with this very problem. It tells you the best times to run and pee while watching a movie. Meaning, the app sends across a vibration when an unimportant scene is coming up giving you the cue to go and pee. All you need to do is manually tell the app when the movie starts. The database is updated weekly and the app even has synopses for the 'pee scenes' so you know what you have missed. The app even lets you know if the movie has any mid-credits or end-credits scenes.

PLUMBER CRACK

This game is another traditional under-the-desk game that lets you chuck an array of items an ice cube, peanut or bouncy ball (to name a few) into the bum-crack of a plumber bending over to fix your sink. The app even lets you customise your plumber or other characters like an IT technician in different clothes and tattoos. It is mindless fun and even has different modes such as Arcade, Sharpshooter and Time Challenges. The game is rather old as it first released in 2012, however, it seems to have found a place in the app tray of several Gen Z kids.

TRILLER

Triller is an app for everyone who has ever wished to be part of their own music video.

No kidding, you can actually create full-length music videos of yourself as long as you have the song on your device. There are some songs available on the app, which are limited to 29 seconds in duration. Triller is extremely easy-to-use because of its auto-editing algorithm. You can shoot multiple takes of yourself and as soon as you are satisfied with all the takes, all you need to do is press a button and voila! The app will slice and join all the takes to create a music video perfectly in-sync with the lyrics. This works very well and the final product looks pretty great.

SEND ME TO HEAVEN (S.M.T.H.)

This app literally wants you to send your phone towards heaven by tossing it up as high as you can. S.M.T.H then registers the height and uploads the results to the leaderboards. You can part of the World, Week, Day, Local or Facebook Friends Top 10 lists (of idiots). The app will feature the videos you send in to them on their Instagram page if they are impressed by the feat you have accomplished. SMH. Who needs this? Kids do, apparently. And even some grown ups who we think are still kids mentally (No offence).

KINEMASTER

Kinemaster is a free yet versatile video editing app for your phone which houses a lot of powerful tools, has an easy-to-use app interface and supports multiple layer creations for video editing. The app houses multifaceted tools like colour adjustment sliders, cropping, rotation, opacity, effects and even a chroma key tool! The features available make it one of the most powerful video editing apps for smartphones. You can export clips at 4K resolution and 60FPS. It is nowhere as powerful as PC editing softwares and neither does it try to replace them. However, if you want to create a decent video on your phone itself, Kinemaster is probably the best app to go to.

HIDE IT PRO

Sorry kids. But we're putting this out there. Hide

It Pro is an app that looks like an innocent audio manager app in the App Drawer, however, it actually houses all the stuff your kid wants to hide from you like calls, messages, controversial apps and videos. On the surface, when you open the app, you will see it as an audio manager that can be used to turn the media and call volume up or down but when you long press the 'Audio Manager' title, the actual app will launch with all the hidden (possibly nefarious) data.

WHISPER

Whisper is an anonymous secrets, thoughts or confessions sharing app where you can divulge your deepest, darkest desires and thoughts to an audience of absolute strangers. You can also dive face-front into the world of confessions and secrets shared by others. You can something like 'I love cats' and the app will automatically select a picture that matches this and post the text overlaid on the picture. Of course, most whispers are not quite so innocent and can get real dark, real quick.
