STANDUP COMEDIANS

Standup Comedy has taken the country by storm. The current scenario of standup comedy in India is a peculiar blend of the Bollywood comedy veterans like Johnny Lever and Kadar Khan having the nation grapple at the stomachs due to unabashed laughter and the western form of comedy which is satirical and cynical. A decade ago, this kind of unapologetic content would cause a massive uproar and the public would have never been as appreciative to this art form as masses in India have evolved to be today. The era post-2010 has seen a colossal drift in the attitudes of the Indian audience being extremely tolerant and encouraging of this art form. Apart from the well-known, but hilarious nonetheless, standup comedians including Biswa 'Mast Aadmi', Kanan Gill and Kenny Sebastian, other lesser-known comedians like Sapan Verma, Neeta Palta and Abhishek Upmanyu also have hilarious acts that can bring you fits of laughter.

We recommend: Neeta Palta, Sapan Verma, Biswa Kalyan Rath, Kenny Sebastian, Abhishek Upmanyu, Daniel Fernandes, Kunal Kamra

COMICS

90s and even 80s kids will fondly remember spending hours reading the good old Amar Chitra Katha comics in their childhood, reading enormous heaps of mythological stories, that don't just cater to Hindu mythologies. Who can forget waiting eagerly, every month, for their copy of Tinkle and once you got it, flipping through the pages to find out that Supandi did something stupid (again), Tantri's evil schemes to become King failed (again) and Shikari Shambu got lucky (AGAIN)? Ah, good times. Apart from these, Raj Comics has a plethora of interesting superhero comics such as Doga, Nagraj and more. These two are part of the team. Brahmand Rakshak

Fan-favourite, Tantri the Mantri, in Tinkle, finally became the King!

(Protectors of the Universe). Avengers vibe anyone? Holy Cow Entertainment Comics also features plenty of interesting stories in their comics including Aghori, Shaitaan and Ravanayan.

We recommend: Raj Comics, Holy Cow Entertainment Comics, Amar Chitra Katha, Tinkle, Meta Desi Comics, Chariot Comics

SHORT FILMS

In India, we have no shortness of creative geniuses who create some thought-provoking, simplistic but meaningful short films with excellent mise en scène, intriguing settings and gripping storylines. Konkana Sen Sharma starrer, Nayantara's Necklace talk about women's desires in an unusual manner.

The Gatekeeper, an award-winning short film, is a heartwarming and deep film about an old man who is charged to upkeep an isolated rail crossing and suffers from extreme alienation. Afterglow is yet another Indian short film with perfect casting, typical characterisation of a Parsi household and a seamless narrative.

We recommend: Nayantara's Necklace, Afterglow, The Gatekeeper, Bypass, Ahalya (another Radhika Apte starrer, maybe she really is omnipresent...)
