

Jaguar Vision Gran Turismo

The only way you can drive this new Jaguar electric concept car is by playing Gran Turismo. <https://dgit.in/nov19-45>

Nissan VR Passenger

Nissan revealed an electric all-wheel drive system, and tech that allows drivers to chat with virtual avatars. <https://dgit.in/nov19-46>

A 16-feet tall LEGO Pharaoh was floated up the Thames on its way to LEGOLAND Windsor. The structure was built in 5 months with a total of 2,00,000 LEGO bricks.

In 2010, back when BlackBerry was still 'the cool kid on the block', self-proclaimed LEGO master, Natan Sawaya, built a five-foot replica of the 9360 model with LEGO bricks and a flat-screen TV mimicking the phone's display.

Builders at LEGO were successful at building a life-sized replica of a Bugatti Chiron using one million LEGO Technic bricks. The craziest part? The LEGO Bugatti Chiron is actually a fully-functional car!

This is an A380 airplane model in LEGOLAND Denmark boasting a wingspan of 10 feet. The structure is built out of 75,000 LEGO bricks.

Constructed by engineers at LEGOLAND Windsor, the structure recreates some of London's greatest landmarks such as the Big Ben, the Palace of Westminster, Tower Bridge, and the famous London Eye.

LEGOLAND Japan is home to the largest LEGO brick cherry blossom tree. The gorgeous sakura tree, consisting of over 8,00,000 LEGO bricks, has a Guinness World Record to its name as well.

LEGO engineers recreated a bizarre-looking Mount Rushmore replica which is located in LEGOLAND Denmark, built out of over one million LEGO bricks.

Shortly after Obama's inauguration as the 44th President of the US, LEGOLAND California recreated the 2008 presidential inauguration with incredible attention to detail, down to Aretha Franklin's performance.

