WHAT'S NEW

Disney+ content will be accessible on Hotstar in India

Hotstar took to Twitter recently to announce that the popular streaming service is working towards bringing Disney+ content to India. The tweet, while slightly ambiguous, was received well since it means that users with a Hotstar subscription won't have to dish out extra dough to access the lucrative Disney+ content as well. Reports indicate that the entire catalogue available on Disney+ will be brought over to Hotstar after IPL 2020, more specifically, the second half of 2020. At no added cost, Indian users with a Hotstar subscription stand to save quite a substantial sum since the service costs about $6.99 per month or $69 for a year. Hotstar is a subsidiary of Star India which is owned by none other than Disney itself. Bringing over the content to Hotstar essentially avoids the tedious task of managing data servers as well as a dedicated support network for the app. Hotstar already has around 300 million monthly active users (as per March 2019) and with the Disney+ content, there's no doubt that more will be lured over to the streaming service.

Deleted scenes from Endgame revealed (spoilers)

Deleted scenes from the final instalment of Avengers have been released on nascent streaming service, Disney+ and on Blu-ray/DVD. The deleted scenes from Avengers: Endgame spurred up MCU fans to come to with a slew of theories and partake in ragging debates. Both Disney+ and the Blu-ray DVD have their own lineup of deleted scenes as bonus materials with a total of 11 deleted/alternate scenes. Two different alternate versions of Bruce Banner meeting the Ancient One were revealed with a rough touch of VFX. They discussed the mechanics of time travel in the MCU "grounded in the idea of quantum physics". An alternative version of Black Widow's death was also shown where she saves Clint's life one last time before breathing her last. Other scenes include a different version of Spider-Man and Iron Man's reunion, Iron Man meeting the older version of his daughter Morgan (Katherine Langford) allowing him to say goodbye to her, Tony and Pepper cooking, Rhodey stumping Cap, Rocket making fun of the Chitauri and more.
