

Biggest failures of the decade

Modular smartphones, premature XR glasses, closed ecosystem smarhome devices and bad mirrorless cams. <https://digit.in/jan20-81>

Best innovations of the decade

Watches, phones and IoT devices all got smarter, and some mirrorless cameras were done right. <https://digit.in/jan20-82>

FEEDBACK FOR THE DECEMBER 2019 ISSUE

Send feedback to editor@digit.in | join us on telegram - t.me/digitgeek | or on discord - discord.gg/myD8Xvt

 March 1999...My friend bought a pentium 2 PC...I saw it and was blown away, with what windows could do..(I had learnt DOS in 1983 and pascal etc in 1986, and knew then that computers are not for me). Anyway Coming back to my story, My dear friend, boasted to me that I knew nothing about computers (when all he knew was basic), and that really angered me. So I set out to study the computer, I bought PC quest and CHIP and blew the hell out of my friend, with my new found knowledge in computers,, Then I went a step further .... I assembled a computer with the then state of the art (i740 Intel graphics card) ..The pc cost me 70,000 those days..... This was only because of going through computer magazines like yours.

The PC helped me to play games, learn (I trade and am in the process of writing a book on the stock markets), and till today I am subscribing to

Digit which started it all, except last Nov when I had financial woes and no money to renew, which led to me missing 2 months ...but I was back on track after 2 months, and renewed the subscription, I also mentioned this to your executive (who good heartedly gave me the missing two months issues free, God bless him).

So subscribing to your magazine gave me

1. Entertainment in movies, games etc on the pc.
2. Learning from the vast universe, and also becoming a stock market trader
3. Kept me safe from emotional damage,as I was too busy reading your magazines and was on the pc, which led to me not going out on dates when I was single those days...and for which my wife is very happy about.

FROM THE TELEGRAM GROUP (t.me/digitgeek)

Hello Digit,
Just finished reading this month's mag. Wonderful job yet again! For Damage Control: Mithun I think the same way about intel. I'll be awaiting their discrete GPU in 2K20 too. Also, I've got the Xiami Redmi Note 8 Pro after going through your review (and it didn't let me down). Kudos for the Zero1

Awards as well. Awesome work there!! Though it would have been helpful if you covered more budget gaming laptops but anyways... Was fascinated by Rewind too. I think you guys can continue this for future issues as well so that we know what we missed out on. Fast forward was very cool as well. (I was able to spend a better evening while warming my hands at the burning fasttrack, so thanks for that too). Finally, SKOAR! was pure gold stuff.

Keep up the good work, as you are the "CHIP" off the old block in the "DIGIT"al age,,pun intended.

I wonder what the mystery gift is for the letter of the month..the new Telsa truck??with bulletproof glass.. Hmmm.

-Jude

 Thank you for your feedback Jude, and I must say, that was a wonderful story. You really did make it hard to pick between you and the eventual letter of the month. Don't worry though, you're not missing out on any Tesla Trucks, with or without bulletproof glass. Our mystery gifts change between whatever stuff we can get our hands on, or a two/three month subscription to Digit (added on to existing subscriptions).

-Mithun

 Hello there
I would like to enquire why Digit magazine isn't available on Magzter as it was before.

It would be great to have it back on Magzter and avoid it being illegally downloaded from anonymous sites and torrents.

Thanking you in anticipation

-Gazanfar Sultan

 Hi Gazanfar,
If you're interested in reading the magazine online or on a mobile device, we recommend subscribing at ReadWhere.

You can find our magazine at:
<https://digit.in/dgtreadwhere>
Thanks,

-Robert

This is the kind of magazine I always wanted digit to be... I would advise you to continue doing such cover articles about parenting n lives of Gamers in India, etc. Much said, thanks for reading. Keep doing your wonder!! PLUS ULTRA!!

-A$TriK

Send us feedback via email, telegram, discord, or social media, and win mystery gifts!