THE RELATIVELY NASCENT MUSIC STREAMING SERVICE, YOUTUBE MUSIC, by tech mogul Google uses YouTube's expansive library of covers, artists and albums to create a capable music-streaming app. It is quite intuitive to use on the surface level, however, if you take a deeper plunge into some of the lesser-known features and abilities of the app, you can supercharge your experience. Furthermore, if you already use Google Play Music, chances are that the company will combine these two music streaming platforms in the near future and it will be useful to get acclimated to all the tools you have at your disposal with YouTube Music. Let's delve right into some lesser-known tips and tricks for YouTube Music.

SEARCH BY THE LYRICS

Utilising Google's algorithmic prowess, users can search for tracks by simply typing in the lyrics of a song. It is probable that you're one of the many who have had a song stuck incessantly in your head, however, you are clueless about the artist, album or song title. Instead of glumly retiring your pursuit for this track, you can simply type a few lyrics you may remember such as "Don't turn your back on me, I won't be ignored". YouTube Music will, in most cases, come up with the exact song you're hunting for, in this case, 'Faint' by 'Linkin Park'. Spotify cannot do this, and Google Play Music, at best, will provide you with the lyrics video, if any, for the song and not the actual track.

OVERHAUL YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS

How often have you heard the saying "Change is the only constant"? This is mostly true when it comes to music as well and it's possible that your taste in music is constantly adapting and morphing. To accommodate these changes and make them reflect in the content that YouTube Music recommends you to listen to you can do the entire set up process again. This is where the app asks you for your preferred language in music, the artists you like and more. Additionally, if your YouTube Music has picked up some 'bad habits' because of that one time your Belieber friend used your YouTube Music, you can utilise this process to set it right. Simply head over to Settings, scroll all the way to the bottom and click on Improve your recommendations. You can pick the language and artists you like again.
