WHAT'S NEW

Disney+ to launch in India via Hotstar on March 29

Disney+, the relatively new streaming service from Disney, will arrive in India on March 29 via Hotstar. The app will be rebranded as Disney+ Hotstar, as per reports. Hotstar announced that it will be adding the entire suite of Disney+ content to its app, which is also one of the most popular streaming services in India. Hotstar is owned by Disney, so it's a transfer that makes sense. The content catalogue brought over from Disney+ will include content from the Marvel Cinematic Universe, Disney, Pixar, National Geographic and Star Wars as well. Moreover, highly-anticipated Disney+ releases, scheduled to release this year, such as

Disney+ Hotstar app. Bob Iger, Disney CEO, revealed that Disney+ will launch in the Indian market through Hotstar on the cusp of the next edition of the IPL. Fans will be thrilled since Disney+ is coming to India a lot sooner than expected. Disney had initially stated that the new streaming app will launch in India in the second half of 2020. <https://dgit.in/DsnyHotstar>

The Falcon and the Winter Soldier, Loki and WandaVision will also be available on the newly-formed

New Batsuit and Bat-cycle revealed

A series of images from the Assets of Matt Reeves' The Batman have been making the rounds around the internet. The photos were snapped on the Glasgow, Scotland, set of the upcoming movie. These unofficial photos revealed Robert Pattinson's, who has been infamously cast as the Batman, new Batsuit. The suit is a departure from prior versions and seems to be more military-influenced than the previous Batman suit.

It contains modular sections of armour. Along with the costume, the set photos also revealed Batman's new bike/cycle. The picture shows a two-wheeler sporting a somewhat retro feel. However, the person wearing the new suit is a stunt-double and not Pattinson. The pictures also allow fans to get a clear look at The Batman's cape, cowl and everything else that makes him Batman. In addition to all this, the photos also reveal a female character joining the Batman for a ride around Gotham. There's a good chance that this female companion is Selina Kyle, also known as Catwoman, played by Zoë Kravitz in the movie. <https://dgit.in/NewBatsuit>
