

Skype can translate text and calls in real-time

go to Settings, then General, and then choose Translation settings. Here you can choose the language you want your calls and texts translated to.

Skype also has another nifty feature – live subtitling for video calls. This can be very useful if your clients or boss is from another country and has a thick, difficult-to-interpret accent. To activate subtitles go to Calling and then navigate to Call subtitles in the Settings menu. You can choose to have subtitles for everyone in the call here (including you) or to exclude yourself from the generated subtitles. Additionally, the subtitles can also be translated in real-time. During a video call, simply tap the three dots in the bottom right and choose Turn subtitles on.

RUN TWO ACCOUNTS OF SKYPE AT THE SAME TIME

Unfortunately, Skype, unlike Google Hangouts, does not have any obvious way to use multiple accounts at once. If you have two separate accounts for work and personal use, it is beneficial to be signed into both at the same time. One simple way to do this is by having one account running on the Skype app on the desktop while the other one runs on the web app at web.skype.com. You can also open secondary instances of the Skype desktop app by opening the Run command box (Win+R) and then typing the following -

For 64-bit version
Windows 10 - "C:\Program Files (x86)\Microsoft\Skype for Desktop\skype.exe" /secondary

For 32-bit version
Windows 10 - "C:\Program Files\Microsoft\Skype for Desktop\skype.exe" /secondary

Ensure that you have installed the Skype app to the default folder. If not, then you will need to edit the pathway above to make this work.

GOOGLE DUO

Google Duo is a free video calling app which allows one-to-one video and voice calls on both Android and iOS devices. The app is primarily for consumers and is the counterpart to Google Hangouts, which is Google's professional video calling solution. The app uses your mobile number and lets you video call your phone's contact list and also offers end-to-end encryption.

DISABLE KNOCK KNOCK

One of the most unique features of Google Duo is the Knock Knock features which allows you to view the video feed of the person calling you even before you answer the call. While it certainly racks points for uniqueness, it may be seen as an invasion of privacy by many. You can also save data by turning off the feature if you're on a limited data plan. To disable this feature, tap the three dots on the top right corner of the screen and go to settings. Then click on Call Settings and find 'Knock Knock for this device'. You can simply toggle the feature on or off here.

CALL YOUR GOOGLE HOME DEVICES

Previously you could only call your Google Home or Google Home Mini devices through Google Assistant, however, now users can even accomplish this using Google Duo. Simply head over to your contacts on Duo and at the top of your contact list, you will see the option to call your Home devices.

ADD FILTERS AND EFFECTS

For a bit of fun, you can add effects and filters to your video calls in Google Duo. Despite the seemingly straightforward interface, Google Duo actually boasts a
