House of the Dragon casting has begun

Casting for the prequel to HBO's Game of Thrones, House of the Dragon, has begun. There isn't much information about the show, other than it'll revolve around House Targaryen. The show is based on George R.R. Martin's Fire & Blood novel, which is set 300 years before the events of Game of Thrones.

WHAT'S NEW

Netflix announces the release date for The Devil All the Time

Netflix has announced the release date for their much-anticipated psychological thriller, The Devil All the Time.

The film is set to premiere on the streaming service globally on 16 September 2020 and features a starry lineup.

The news comes via a tweet, where Netflix announced the release date and a complete list of the cast members. The star-studded cast features an ensemble of familiar names including Tom Holland, Bill Skarsgård, Robert Pattinson, Mia Wasikowska, Sebastian Stan, Riley Keough, Jason Clarke, Haley Bennett, Eliza Scanlen, Harry Melling and Pokey LaFarge. Directed by Antonio Campos, The Devil All the Time is a Southern Gothic psychological thriller based on the bestselling book of the same name by Donald Ray Pollock.

After his web-slinging escapades in Marvel's Spider-Man films, Tom Holland will be leading the cast as Alvin Russell. The movie is being produced by Jake Gyllenhaal.

The Boys renewed for a third season

While we know for a fact that Season 2 of anti-hero show The Boys is coming this September 4, in what is somewhat surprising, season three of the show has been renewed even before the second season has aired! The usual cast will be reprising their roles, including Karl Urban as the iconic Billy Butcher. The third season will continue where the second one leaves off we're assuming (once we actually watch it, we'll be able to confirm). For those who have never watched the series, The Boys follows, well, the Boys, as they attempt to save people from The Seven, a group of corrupted superheroes being led by Homelander, played by Antony Starr. The show doesn't lack shock value or edginess, and is full to the brim with gore and violence, definitely not for those with weak stomachs.
