

New Flash costume teased

Two images featuring Ezra Miller's The Flash's new suit were revealed at DC FanDome. <http://digit.in/sep20-89>

Unaired Avatar episode

The unaired pilot episode of Avatar: The Last Airbender was released by Nickelodeon. <http://digit.in/sep20-90>

Interactive art installations

The interactive art genre is becoming more prominent as it is being revolutionised by technology. These artistic pieces marry technology, design, light and sometimes even sound.

Dhriti Datta | dhriti@digit.in

Image source: National Museum of Singapore

↑ Conceptualised and created by creative group teamLab, 'Story of the Forest' transforms 69 drawings from the William Farquhar Collection of Natural History Drawings into 3D animations. Visitors can interact with the artwork using the Story of the Forest smartphone app.

Image source: Ars Electronica Futurelab

← Part of the 'Artists, Creators, Engineers' showcase, 'Shadowgram' is a variation of shadow theatre where visitors print out their silhouette and stick it onto a large wall graphic.

Image credit: Alexandre Ayer

← Located in New York City, 'LOOP' is an interactive and immersive art installation that people can sit in. Once inside, visitors need to crank a metal bar to view images inspired by fairy tales that play in a loop.

Image credit: Aaron Rogosin / Jen Lewin Studio

← Created by Jen Lewin, 'The Pool' is an art installation that fuses light, technology and human interaction. Stepping on any circular pad in the installation lights it up and causes a gorgeous ripple effect.

Image source: Marpi Studio

← 'Binary Garden' is an interactive art installation by digital artists, Marpi. The gorgeous digital art piece can be manipulated in real-time via an app and even responds to a visitor's touch and voice.

Image source: Super Nature Studio

← Named 'new angles', this interactive light installation, created by Super Nature, mimics the actions of those in front of it by displaying a coloured silhouette by turning on corresponding lights.

Image credit: James Medcraft

← The studio Field created an interactive art installation for Nike called 'Force of Nature'. A treadmill detects the user's motion and speed and then displays visual effects on a distorted portrait of themselves.