

Foxconn warnings

Apple's supplier Foxconn has warned that they suffer a shortage of components which will last till 2022. <http://dgit.in/apr21-75>

IBM's climate goals

IBM plans to get is committed to reaching net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2030. <http://dgit.in/apr21-76>

>> FEEDBACK FOR THE MARCH 2021 ISSUE

Send feedback to editor@digit.in |
join us on telegram - t.me/digitgeek |
or on discord - discord.gg/MyD8Xvt

Last December you guys told us through your magazine that the Snyder Cut will add only 4 minutes in the JL movie. And guess what? You guys were wrong. I know you have already watched it. Now my friends are laughing at me because I shared that article on social media last year. Usually, I buy 5-6 Digit magazines in a year.

—Samart Roy

Hey Samart, They actually did only shoot a few minutes of extra footage for the Snyder Cut. All the extra footage in the Snyder Cut was already shot before Whedon took over, after which essentially 80% of the movie Snyder shot was scrapped. So you can tell your friends that you were right all along. :)

—Manish

Hi Digit Team,

While going through the article Portable Audio Troubles in the March issue, I had the idea of writing this to you. I am a retired Bank Executive and a regular reader of Digit since its first issue.

Based on the knowledge (wisdom?) gained by going through your magazine, I was assembling computers, as a hobby, for my friends. After retirement in 2014, I am running a Consultancy concern and continue to assemble, service and trouble-shoot systems.

After great research for setting up a Home Theatre, I designed and established, on my own, a full-fledged 3D Home Theatre, in my house. The following are the components:

1. Projector : Epson – HC 2150
2. Amplifier : Denon -AVR X540BT

Letter of the Month

Hello, I am a 20 year old guy(geek). I came upon Digit Magazine last year and loved every aspect about it and the various topics that it covered. However, I was quite heartbroken to find that a major part of the publication i.e. SKOAR! was not available with my print order. It would have made for a great collectible book which I could look at after a few years and revisit the older games.

I do understand that the cost of the book might not be sufficient for all the goodies. In my very personal opinion, the DVD is not really necessary in this day and age of the internet. I had not even used DVDs for like 5 years until I got your magazine (My DVD drive got stuck too!). The softwares, movies and ebooks found on the DVD are available for free on the internet and therefore are not really worth the hassle. I would advise that some useful softwares and materials be suggested in the magazine itself.

Instead SKOAR! would be a very attractive addition to the magazine. I loved reading the gaming reviews and feasting my eyes on images of the latest games. I think your other subscribers might be of this opinion too.

Thanking You,

—Shrijon Biswas

Hey Shrijon,

This is a topic that we've visited and revisited for several years now, and we agree with you wholeheartedly. We'd love nothing more than to transfer the costs of the DVD to having SKOAR! In print, but we've always been vetoed by readers in surveys we have taken.

That said, I'm happy to conduct another email survey of our readers and try and get a more concrete answer for 2021. I'd honestly like to kickstart this with our June 2021 (20th Anniversary Special) issue, so all subscribers of the magazine can expect an email from me asking them to take a very short survey. We will do this in the first week of April – after April 1 for sure, because we don't want people confusing it as an April Fool's prank. Let's see how things go.

—Robert

