WHAT'S NEW

First look at Michael Keaton's return as Bruce Wayne

The Flash movie, starring Ezra Miller, began filming in April and director Andy Muschietti has been providing fans with a constant stream of BTS updates from the sets of the film. The latest update is a blood-stained close-up of the Batman suit which was worn by Michael Keaton when he played the role of the Caped Crusader. This suit will make a return in the new DCEU film The Flash with Michael Keaton reprising his role as Bruce Wayne a.k.a. The Batman. The suit is distinct since it features a yellow version of the Batman logo that has seen so many alterations through the years. It has been confirmed that Michael Keaton will be playing one of the two Batmen making an appearance in this film. The other one being Ben Affleck, who will be donning the Batman cape once again. The Flash film will be following the Flashpoint storyline from the DC comics which includes multiple timelines. The Flash is scheduled to be released on the big screen on November 4, 2022. <https://dgit.in/batmanfirstlook>

The Mandalorian season 3 won't be coming anytime soon

With The Mandalorian becoming a worldwide phenomenon and racking up lots of love from fans, many were expecting the third season of the show to make its way onto the Disney+ platform in early 2022. However, in Variety's 'Variety Studio: Actors on Actors' series, Pedro Pascal (who plays the Mandalorian) divulged to his fellow Star Wars star, Ewan

McGregor, that the third season hasn't started to be filmed yet. Pascal is starring in HBO's The Last of Us, which will start filming from July 2021 all the way to June 2022, so it doesn't look like the third season of The Mandalorian will be filmed anytime soon due to scheduling conflicts. However, we will have The Book of Boba Fett to watch in December, which is a spin-off about famous bounty hunter Boba Fett. That should keep most Star Wars fans satiated until the release of season 3. <https://dgit.in/mandos3>
