TRUST THE NUMBERS NOT YOUR GUTS

Understanding the metrics and numbers behind the words that you write is a tough task no matter where you write. But there's a tool in Bear that helps you get an idea of how long a reader would take to read what you you need to write to nail the timing on that presentation or reach the exact word limit that was set for your long pending assignment.

BECOME THE MACRO KING

Macros play an important part in determining how easily you can get things done. With Bear's macro integration, you can assign macros to simple tasks like opening a new note or even opening the app in the main window. For that, you will need to head over to the settings menu, located on the left pane, represented by "⚙️". Once you are in there, go to the Global Shortcuts section in the bottom part of the popup that opens, and click on the 'Record Shortcuts' buttons located next to the names of the two actions, "Open Bear main window" and "Create New Note". After clicking the button, it would get relabeled as Record Shortcut. After this appears, you are all set. Now, simply click the shortcut keys and

ADD YOUR OWN TOUCH TO THE APP

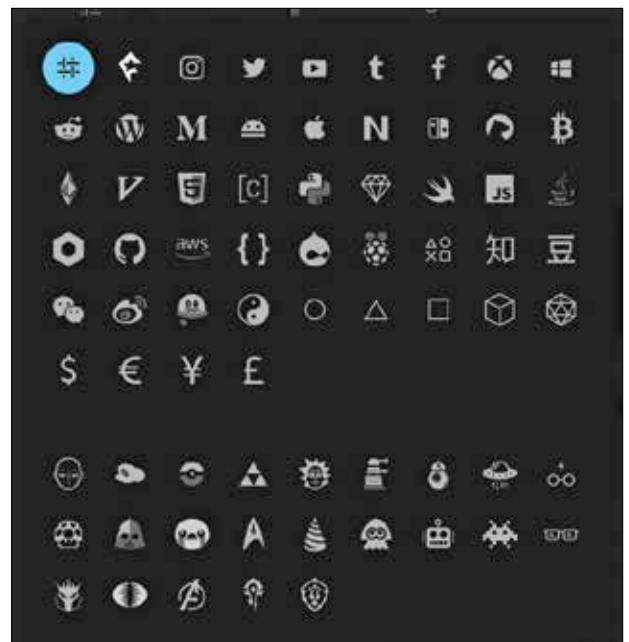

Bear app allows a host of custom settings that can be applied in the app to make the experience more pleasing for each individual user. To improve the cosmetics of the app, you can change the theme, by going into the settings menu, and then clicking on the Themes tab on the top of the pop-up window. There you will find a host of themes to choose from. Not only that, for each tag, you can change the icon, to help you in quick identification of each category of notes. To accomplish this, you will need to mouse over to the tag that you want to modify, then right click on the tag. The menu that loads will have the option called 'Change Icon Tag'. Click on that, and you will be greeted with a library of custom icons which can be assigned to each tag individually.

BUILD A NOTES ECOSYSTEM OF YOUR OWN

Bear has a feature called Cross-Note Links which enables its users to create a set of notes that are nested together and can be navigated in a flow. This creates a body of work which has notes linked with one another. To use this feature, you need to first go to the note that you want to link to. Then right click on it and select 'Copy Link To Note'. After you have done this, go back to the note where you want the link to be placed. Once there, right click again and hit Paste, and there you go. A link to the note will appear, which can be clicked to access the linked note instantly. 1
