

SanDisk Extreme PRO Portable SSD V2

SanDisk has refreshed their portable SSD lineup with a huge increment in performance. The new SanDisk Extreme PRO Portable SSD V2 (Model - E81) looks identical to last year's V1 model with no design changes. Everything from the dimensions to the placement of the interface has remained the same. The unit is rated for IP55 ingress protection and the rubberised coating on the exterior does make it capable of handling the occasional tumble or two. Also, the 5-year warranty period continues to be good value addition. On the inside, we have an NVMe M.2 SSD just like what the previous-gen V1 had. Only that now we have the WD SN730e instead of the WD SN750. The WD SN730e is capable of speeds of up to 3400 MB/s during reading and 3100 MB/s during write. However, since we're relegated to a USB Type-C 3.2 Gen 2x2 interface, we can only get about 2000 MB/s with the Extreme PRO Portable V2. This shouldn't be looked at as a shortcoming since there are barely any consumer electronics out there with the 20 Gbps USB 3.2 Gen 2x2 interface. Only some of the high-end motherboards have it, so this external SSD does become a premium offering and with a price tag to match.

GOQii Smart Vital Junior

Priced at ₹4,999, the GOQii Smart Vital Junior is a smartwatch aimed at kids. Like other smartwatches/trackers from GOQii's Vital lineup, the Smart Vital Junior can track essential parameters like the SpO2 level, body temperature, pulse, and even the BP when paired with the app and a few additional steps. With the Smart Vital Junior, parents will be able to monitor their child's vitals, activities etc.

With today's circumstances in mind, a device like this is pretty handy, allowing you to immediately find out, and keep track of, SpO2 levels and temperature. The GOQii Smart Vital Junior intends for parents to be able to keep track of just that for their kids. The smartwatch can track sleep as well.

To make the watch more appealing to kids, the watch comes with colourful, elastic straps, making them very easy to wear and take-off, and quite secure as well. These straps are washable, and switchable, allowing for some degree of customisability as well. Strap colour options vary from Blue and White, Bubblegum Pink, Cherry and Cream, Ocean Blue, Olive Green, Rainbow, Red and Black, Santa Red, White and Pink, to Zebra Black. These straps don't come with the watch however, and will need to be purchased separately.

GOQii have introduced diets and workouts aimed at kids on the GOQii Play app as well, and you can even consult paediatricians via the app. Pairing with the device is very easy, and has been the case with most GOQii devices.

The GOQii Smart Vital Junior comes with a 33mm colour display, a capacitive touch button for navigation, and an IP68 water and dust resistance rating. It also features music control, a phone finder, and smart notifications. Additionally, it can track up to 18 activity modes for parents to monitor.
