

"Lotus123" and the database application is "d base III plus". Digit is the technology updation partner for this long journey. Thanks to the digit for introducing the latest technology to their readers. Also I am a fan of your Digit Fast Track. If my memory is right, the first Fast Track is about Digital Camera. I have collected all the Fast Tracks in my book self.

Main purpose of this letter is to request you to bring out a Fast Track about ODK (Open Data Kit) Data collection platform. And its related components. I am using it since 2013 for collecting data from fields. This might be helpful for many people working in rural areas.

Dear Digit,

Thanks for being the technology navigator for so many of us.

I still remember the day when I first got my hands on the magazine in 12th standard in year 1999 (it was CHIP back then). I used to ask my parents to spare ₹100 whenever a new edition came out, but they only allowed me to buy once in 3-4 months.

Fast forward to 2006. I was a commerce student and became a Chartered Accountant. I did a lot of process improvements in my finance role, played with Excel macros, even found hacky way to do things fast. My source of knowledge and power was Digit all along. As I developed more interest in technology, I switched careers in 2013. Quit my job and started a software company. Digit has been instrumental in developing my interest in computers and technology. Thanks Digit, I am forever indebted to you!

—Prashant

I love the way Digit's editorial team selects topics and articles every month. Especially the Fast-tracks, there is a new and awesome technology to learn every month. And dmystify reminds me of encyclopedias of the old days. Every time I want to buy a product, I refer to Digit's review of it first. I'll miss the CD's though. Reminds me how the times are changing.

When I was a kid, I'd go to my schools library. It had a collection of Digit going back many years.

I hope digit remains in print forever so that I can read it when I'm 80 years old to keep up with the technologies.

I wish I could offer any improvement but I realized it's perfect the way it is. It has a little bit of everything for everyone!

digit diary

If you are ever curious about what the Digit gang is up to, this is the place to get all the inside info. From the latest game we're obsessing about to the newest intern we're driving up the wall — it's all here folks.

It was more time in front of the camera for the team this month, with a number of shoots lined up. For the first time Dhriti shot at an outdoor location to make the video for the Dizo GoPods. Said outdoor location was simply "outside the office", a location swarming with cats that threaten to photobomb the videos. During this shoot Mithun made fun of Dhriti's nose, calling it both hooked and crooked, making the others imagine Baba Yaga wearing wireless headphones while kicking cats out of the frame. All that teasing left Mithun so exhausted that he was breathing heavily while making his videos, which turned out to be a pretty good impression of Darth Vader. Manish meanwhile shot the gaming mouse video review, so if the readers want to see what the team has been up to, just head over to Digit's YouTube channel.

Robert spend most of the month stuck in meetings after meeting, including mancom meetings, amazon meetings, therapist meetings, school meetings, bank meetings, family meetings... and got yelled at in all of them. It is no wonder that he became a Zoombie by the end of the month, being capable of shedding only 2 tears when CR7 signed to come back to Utd. He is now up in arms along with the antivaxxers demanding that Australia opens up its borders so he can go and watch some live futbol.

When it came to the down time, which the team had precious little of, Manish played League of Legends and Guild Wars 2, Dhriti and Mithun played Clash of Clans, with Mithun putting in a few hours in Valorant as well. Adi was seen running around with a pink and blue rhino in Warframe, with the butterfly wing like sari syandana, and we are too scared to know what is going on there.
