

Walmart uses drone for delivery

Walmart announced they're exploring how drones can deliver items in a way that's safe and fast. <https://digit.in/oct21-87>

Crypto CEO threatens customers

Crypto CEO threatens customers after mistakenly sending them millions. <https://digit.in/oct21-88> reading any issue for any reason the satisfaction of having Digit for every month is different and can't be let go.

Regards

—Shubham Goyal

Konnichiwa Mr. Editor.

I have been writing feedback to you since the start of this year. But I never got a reply from you. I am now providing some feedback.

1. Please start a column that can be useful for students. As many of your readers are students.
2. When reading the reviews of products tested by you. I came across many terms that I can't understand. I can search for them but when travelling and reading

Digit, sometimes the network got lost and I suffer from not understanding the meaning. So can you release a fasttrack or a column on terms that you use like color gamut, HDCP, spectraCal, delta error etc.

3. Please change the agent 0001 design. It is very ancient looking.
4. Please reply to email that people send you. As me, my friends are writing you mails for more than a year but you never replied.
5. Please make the Anime column more lengthy. I liked it very very much. If i can work for that column than it will be my life's best work.
6. Some years ago, there used to be a DGT Auto, well i know you can't print it but it will be nice if you can make a digital edition of it.

7. Can you include Anime posters alongside the normal posters, as many people will like it.
 8. The Digit diary. It's one of my favourite things on the mag. But I hate it that you only make it length like a no need thing. Many people will like to increase in it's length.
 9. Sometimes there is a QR code of Digit squad, but every time I Scanned it, It never worked. I also took the exam for the digit squad, but I never was chosen and never did I get my results.
- That's all I have to say. Hope you made a reply,

—Raghwender

Letter of the Month

Hello Digit,

I loved the August month's cover story "Right to Repair", it has completely changed my views towards the tech I own and has made me realized how bad consumer am I. After reading that cover story now I have come to a state of mind that owning the latest phone < using it for years and being a clever consumer.

Digit has made me a electronic consultant among my peer group. Whenever someone has anything to buy in terms of electronics they would contact me and I would say go to google and type "digit top mobiles under 15k", "digit top budget laptops". Some non techie people also ask me to recommend something and I would research from my digit magazines and website, kind of like a lawyer going through loads of books ... and boy I have never disappointed them. Thank You Digit. Could you please cover some products which are ethical or have high repair-ability score in all categories of tech.

Few feedback related to the digit website:

The images and text is big and it feels so not a "user" thing. I mean people would have visited your website to check out something from google search results. But if someone wanted to visit your website solely, they would surely be disappointed by the UI.

Take care of the YELLING CAPS TEXT ON THE HOMEPAGE and please change the sections of "telugu news" "malayalam news" to something else ... may be you can proly add a section for choosing language or something alternative.

Please take care of the home page, there's so much to scroll and the content is totally formatted only into the middle. Not to mention the black color navigation bar which is kinda not giving cool vibes. Try to add few articles of yours in the homepage to attract more readers to digit magazine, like an old cover story or something.

Although Content is King, no doubt but sometimes small changes could lead to big things sorry if I was a wrong of a critic anywhere, but I feel digit as a part of my identity and feel like something is missing, so when

I ask someone to check out the site I want them to actually come back to it, UX matters.

Some thing about Magazine:

Please include a "frugal" section while recommending tech stuff. I know "budget smartphones" "budget laptops" already does that job, but a section which displays a 2018 smartphone which can be bought now for cheap and used, while enjoying the matching latest speeds

(New doesn't always mean best) For example:

Frugal Smartphones - Samsung Bla Bla - 2018 (Flagship), Moto bla bla - 2019 (hardcore frugal).

Or may be a section which displays only Right to Repairability enabled products. I would love digit experimenting something new in the buying advice section, even if it doesn't work for a short term, I'm sure you guys are creative enough to make it work or may be discontinue it like Google does to its services.

Thank You,

—Srilikhith

