Hi Digit,

I really loved and moreover found the November issue as a really useful one. The "Ultimate Tech Gift Guide" part is going to help with Birthdays, Secret Santa, etc. I have already kept this magazine aside for future use.

So, I was first introduced to Digit back in my engineering days when one afternoon during our lunch break, I decided to step into our college library as most of my friends were hostellers and they would go to their room to take a nap. There are two things that excite me - Technology and Automobiles. Didn't find any Automobile related books, but there I found DIGIT magazine and I remember spending every afternoon in the college library reading a few pages each day.

I have some feedback that will mostly include the online web experience. I use Magzter for magazines and the last Digit issue present over there is of 2017. I know that I can access e-magazine from Digit Website but the experience is not that great. Also, it doesn't feel anything close to a physical magazine.

Secondly, the website. The website is really outdated and overall cumbersome, your content is great but that UX makes it all complicated and noisy, mostly the homepage. Rest, on the physical magazine part. I still have an optical drive in my laptop, so I miss your DVDs but it's fine.

Apart from that, I have loved Digit's work for years. Keep up the good work!

Hi,

I've gone from reading Digit at my school library to the university library across a decade and half. I picked it up recently and was most surprised by the fall in long-form

"Thank you so much digit! I'm so excited weifjweoifjweoifwe."

Hello Editor,

I want to ask if you could please make a fastrack on Unity 3D Development? You made one in the May 2020 edition but it was about 2D games but I would like to see a 3D Game making guide I hope you reply and make the fastrack soon.

Hello Digit

I have been a reader since 4 years and I had this sense of wonder that how come Digit comes with unique and interesting stuff every month. I had this fear that Digit running out of ideas. Pretty much everything you cover, I don't find anywhere on the Internet when it comes to cover stories. But the fear had never come true. You always produce the same amount of interesting content while not dropping the genuinity and uniqueness.

Speaking in terms of Consumer Perspective, you guys produce something so dammn good.

I never really pay for news subscriptions since most of them these days are biased. But when it comes to digit, I feel that I'm paying for the right amount of information and it does feel justified.

I don't know how the online subscription is going on, but I will always gravitate to having the paper feels of digit magazine. Things must have been different in the pandemic time but Please ensure you guys deliver it on time. It just feels so frustrating to wait for the magazine
