

The Man with the Iron Lung

Paralysed by polio in 1952, Paul Alexander has led a full life despite being confined to a steel ventilator. <https://digit.in/nov21-83>

The Universe in Bits and Bytes

A new estimate calculates the bits of information present in the visible cosmos. <https://digit.in/nov21-84> to arrive, for we are digit lovers !!

Thanks you so much!

–Jaipal Singh

Hi,
I live in Oklahoma in the USA. I just finished reading “Pseudoscience” (June 2017). I found it to be excellent. I’m an engineer by trade, but I think my review of “Pseudoscience” would not represent the norm of engineers in this area of the country. I found it on a download site. I noted some of the Dmystify booklets are available on Amazon.in, but none on Amazon.com. Could you please tell me where I might purchase more of your publications? Thanks.

–John Frudd

Dear Sir,
I am giving my feedback for Digit Magazine that. This Digit Magazine Magazine is well designed and much more informative. I like it. I am Assistant Librarian and always motivated to the BE student to read this magazine. So thank you.

–Dr. Vaibhav Manohar

Letter of the Month

Dear Digit team,
I have been subscribed to your magazine for more than a year now and I have really enjoyed the content. The June magazine, which was the 20th Anniversary magazine, had a lot of expectations riding on it, but I found it a disaster for me. First of all, it had very less content from the editorial team and lots of articles from the industry people but those all seemed the same thing to me. I like how you kept the industry articles to only 5 in this magazine but I think it is better if you lower it down to 2-3. I loved that you have added SKOAR! back to the magazine and it is phenomenal. In my opinion, you should make the SKOAR! a separate booklet but then I don’t know if it would be feasible. Make memes a regular thing and make the reviews of movies, shows, and animes a 3-4 page thing. Some of the Fasttracks feel very niche to me and very tough to understand to someone who has very less knowledge on those topics. Try making Fasttracks on free softwares rather than paid ones. The horizontal posters are better than the vertical ones in my opinion. You guys could also add a page in SKOAR! of tips and tricks on popular multiplayer games. That’s all the feedback I could give to you all, hope you all make the necessary changes. Thank you.

–Anvith Hegde

digit diary

For the second time now, we bid adieu to the original lanky chap, Aditya. Aditya had joined us long back when he was just a wee boy fresh from college and left us soon after. He’d joined us the second time around after a gap of close to 7-8 years and now that he’s moving cities, he’s finally decided to leave us for good. So you’ll be seeing a little less of the odd sciency stories from now on. Everybody else has been busying themselves with the upcoming Zero1 Awards, our annual super-mega-

If you are ever curious about what the Digit gang is up to, this is the place to get all the inside info. From the latest game we’re obsessing about to the newest intern we’re driving up the wall – it’s all here folks.

test-a-thon where we test every damn device under the sun to list out the best of them all. So how are we preparing? With copious amounts of gaming. Age of Empires IV came out towards the end of the month and the oldies who’d grown up playing the franchise found themselves getting dragged into multiplayer games at odd hours. Finally, we say this with great shame – One of the candidates was caught plagiarising on one of the assignments. Little boy wonder thought he could slip one past the steely-eyed editors but we caught him at the right time. A termination was issued and the editor took it upon himself to right the mistakes of this bone-headed intern. We’re gonna take a little extra time to fix everything. So you’re probably going to get this issue a couple of days after the usual time. Sorry about that.

