

New uncoverings at Vesuvius

Archaeologists find partially mutilated Vesuvius victim at new dig.
<https://dgit.in/dec21-46>

Edge taking jabs at Chrome

Microsoft Edge will now take cheeky jabs at Google Chrome and "dangers" of downloading it.
<https://dgit.in/dec21-47>

Letter of the Month

Hi Digit,

I'm Thomas Alex. I live in a seminary. I have been reading the Digit for 1 year, I got introduced to Digit by a friend, Cristy. I love Digit very much and all the articles. We have very less connection with the tech world and Digit is the bridge which joins us. I'm interested in tech stuff and gadgets from childhood and I understand that it's an indispensable part of our life. I have visited digit.in many times in search of reviews but never knew that there was a tech magazine, that too in India! Coming to Digit I love almost everything especially reviews, articles, the info on the both sides of the top of the page. I was quite shocked when Digit did not come on time but understood that it was because of the plagiarism issue. Some of my batch mates are very interested in science-stuff of Digit, some are Skoar fans. My friend Austin is sad that Aditya is leaving. I also love the small magazine and the Bitcoin edition is actually the need of the hour as we hear a lot about bitcoins in the news. I would like to suggest you to give some manuals on Photoshop and other useful softwares. Please add FOSS (Free and Open Source Softwares) more in the magazine. Quality and the contents are very great and I understand different people like different stuff in the magazine as my batch mates also like different stuff in it. I'm waiting for the Christmas edition-the December as it comes with a lot of promises about testing all the tech stuff under the sun.

—Thomas Alex

Hey Thomas,

We're glad you enjoy the magazine. Our eDVD archives are full of open source software that you can download. We're sorry for disappointing you yet again with a late issue, but we've tested every gadget under to sun for this special issue, so we hope you enjoy reading it.

—Manish

digit diary

It was a quaint Friday evening as some of us stood in the balcony waxing philosophical when we learnt that one of the individuals has a nasty habit. This discussion was about the urge to vacate one's bowels as per a regular schedule. We were shocked to learn that individuals can exist by exercising this divine right only once in a week! As the initial shock of this revelation started to wear off, the elders who were part of this discussion started weighing in with their life experiences. Some nasty, some disgusting, some even fatal. All in the hope that this one individual would come to their senses and start vacating on a daily basis. It seems our efforts bore fruit and the guilty party ran straight into the abyss to do the deed. In good news, some of our editors have gotten engaged this month. After a whole three years of keeping things under wraps, the cat was finally out of the bag. And an engagement was swiftly had. We'll keep you updated on the who's who and the what's what in the diary. In other news, the folks have been sucked into the world of Pokémon with some playing Pokémon Go and some playing Pokémon Unite. Nihilism is the branch of philosophy that morals, beliefs, ideas, etc., have no value in this world. It's the phase that an individual goes through after a life-altering experience. It's what, our interns go through within weeks of signing up for – The Intern Enrichment Programme 4.x. Yes! Ladies and gentlemen, the programme is back. We have taken a page from Friedrich Nietzsche's personal diary and implemented brainwashing technologies to remove all the garbage that our interns learn through all their years of schooling. All of that is useless and the only thing that matters are the pearls of wisdom that our esteemed Editors have to share. The Intern Enrichment Programme (IEP) has successfully shaped and given form to countless individuals and given them a goal in life. Without the IEP, these individuals would have been roaming the internets and posting ... dank memes. You can thank us for keeping the internet sane, one intern at a time. IEP 4.x is being put into action as three more interns join us this month. Stay tuned.

If you are ever curious about what the Digit gang is up to, this is the place to get all the inside info. From the latest game we're obsessing about to the newest intern we're driving up the wall – it's all here folks.

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

"We fight viciously to retain the local gym"

— Editor to new interns