

your childhood, then you have got to use that processing prowess of your smartphone for some retro gaming. To get started, we recommend PPSSPP Gold. It's a PSP emulator that will let you play all the games you had or didn't have from PlayStation's enormous library of PSP games. The emulator is easy to use and can help you get started on a wonderful journey of emulating other consoles right on your smartphone.

ExpressVPN (From $8.32/month)

Are you even surprised that a VPN app has made it on this list? At this point, everyone has been well educated about the benefits of a VPN thanks to the many sponsorships we see on YouTube. And you could really pick any one of the paid VPN apps and be reasonably happy with it. Our pick though is ExpressVPN. Although it's not a paid app per se, it does have a subscription service. It offers quick speeds thanks to over 3000 servers, smart security features and 24/7 customer support as well. If you are an avid internet user and let's be honest you probably are, considering you are reading this, a VPN is a must for not just security, but also entertainment.

Nova Launcher Prime (₹99)

Android users have it pretty good don't they? The whole system even in its unrooted state is infinitely customisable to make it convenient and easy to use as per individual preferences. While most smartphones give you a bunch of customisation options right out of the box, what you need to truly exploit the full potential is something like Nova Launcher Prime. This launcher has been on the Play Store for years now, and for good reason. With Nova Launcher Prime, you can completely change the look of the interface and even how you navigate through it thanks to gesture support. Even effects and animations can be adjusted to your preferences.

IOS

Procreate (₹899)

If you are the creative type and would like to flex some of those artistic muscles by creating stunning digital designs or paintings, look no further than Procreate. This app for iOS and more specifically for iPads is a one-stop-shop for graphic design. Most users claim that the interface and learning curve are extremely intuitive while at the same time being capable enough to go up against some of the more serious software. Not convinced yet? All you need to do is go online and check out the astonishing artworks that have been created using Procreate.

FiLMiC Pro (₹1,299)

The film-making prowess of modern iPhones is exceptional, to say the least. It has been at the top of the smartphone hierarchy when it comes to video performance for quite a while now and a lot of people use their iPhones as a real professional film-making tool. The built-in camera app though does not offer much in terms of control which can be a bit irksome when shooting in suboptimal conditions. For occasions such as this, FiLMiC Pro saves the day thanks to its plethora of control options, colour control and picture profiles. You can also set the video format for recording, or even record high bitrate videos.

FaceTune (₹349)

We are breaking all records in terms of shooting images and with billions of selfies taken every month, an app to edit and improve a picture of your mug is as vital as a camera app these days. It's important though for the app to be user friendly and useful for people who have no editing knowledge. And that brings us to FaceTune. With FaceTune you can airbrush your skin to have flawless skin in every shot, there is also a glow feature to give skin a radiance, pearly white teeth is easy and possible with a simple tap and you can even reshape your face or highlight some of your features too. With such a powerful tool at everyone's disposal, it's no wonder catfishing is so common these days, eh?

SkyView (₹269)

One of the few free pleasures in life is to lie back on a terrace or while camping and just look up at the night sky, full of stars. Oh, wait, when was the last time you saw more than a handful of stars? It has probably been a while, hasn't it? Well, fear not, Digit is here to help you out with the next best thing. SkyView is a stargazing app that lets you get up close and personal with the heavenly bodies. Just turn the app on and point it skyward. It will show you exactly what you are pointing at, show you the constellations, the planets in our solar system and even the International Space Station passing through. What you have is the world's best astronomer right in your pocket and you don't even have to pay a hefty salary.
