THE FLASH

November 4, 2022

About time Flash gets to shine in his standalone movie, after his appearance in the 2017 Justice League. Ezra Miller's Barry Allen will return to the screen in November 2022 and will be accompanied by both Ben Affleck and Michael Keaton's version of Batman (Multiverse we see you). This project has changed hands quite often with Seth Grahame-Smith, Rick Famuyiwa, and John Francis Daley and Jonathan power source. The film is directed by Jaume Collet-Serra and also stars Pierce Brosnan, Sarah Shahi and Noah Centineo.

Goldstein backing down from the project. It seems the film's finally going to happen this time, with IT's Andy Muschiett directing, working alongside scriptwriter Christina Hodson.

AQUAMAN AND THE LOST KINGDOM

December 16, 2022

Jason Momoa will be back with Aquaman and the Lost Kingdom as Atlantean king Arthur Curry, and his devious half-brother Orm played by Patrick Wilson. The plot is kept under wraps but what's for sure is that Black Manta is back for revenge and our Aquaman who has gotten a costume upgrade for himself (we like that for him) has to forge an unlikely friendship to protect Atlantis.

THE BATMAN

March 4, 2022

After getting delayed due to Covid, The Batman starring Robert Pattinson will finally be releasing this March.

Directed by Matt Reeves, the cast includes Zoë Kravitz as Selina Kyle aka Catwoman, Jeffrey Wright as Commissioner Jim Gordon, Colin Farrell as Penguin, and Paul Dano as Riddler.

The new trailer for Batman revealed Bruce Wayne and Catwoman fighting Riddler and his plans. The dynamic between the two would surely be the highlight of the film given their cat and mouse relationship.

SPIDER-MAN: ACROSS THE SPIDER-VERSE - PART ONE

October 7, 2022

The much anticipated sequel to the 2018's academy winner Spider man: Into the Spider-Verse is set to release this year. The first look of the movie has only added to the excitement with footage of Miles Morales (Shameik Moore) and Gwen Stacy (Hailee Steinfeld) teaming up again and are seen multiverse hopping. Joining them are Peter Parker (Jake Johnson), Jessica Drew (Issa Rae), Japanese Spider from the 1978 live-action series and a cameo by Miguel O'Hara (Spider-Man 2099) voiced by Oscar Isaac. The new antagonist of the sequel is said to be more powerful than any other villains our spider gang have encountered.
