

THE UNLIKELY GEEK

What makes the new Pulsars desirable? Let's find out.

The things you own always help define your personality. They are a reflection of your taste in things and the kind of aura you exude. Simply put: as a motorcycle rider, the kind of helmet you wear defines your type – a commuter VS a real biker. The golden rule is simple - One has to look the part!

If you have come here looking for the coolest extensions to your personality, you are in the absolute right space. We know what's cool, what are the must haves and what adds to your oomph. Lets look at answering these questions.

IS IT LEGENDARY AND DOES IT HAVE A CULT FOLLOWING?

Some brands are clearly legendary, (while some try forever to be conferred with this title). One such authentic entity, that is ubiquitous in presence, purist in DNA, means business even when standing still, is the Pulsar. It has earned every bit of its cult status and grown a tribe of Pulsar Maniacs over decades in India and globally. No surprises then, that motorcycles that adorn the Pulsar badge are synonymous with thrill, for over two decades.

But it's not about the fans alone, when foes also wait with baited breath in anticipation of the next, bigger, better, badder Pulsar, is when the legendary status is set in stone! And the latest generation, the biggest Pulsar yet - with its two stunning siblings, the F250 & the N250 are sure to carry this legacy forward.

DOES IT SAY THE RIGHT THINGS ABOUT YOU?

A brand or a product in your possession, speaks volumes about your character in just a glance for the beholder. Sometimes in more ways than one could ever describe in words. Wearing it, owning it, riding it, whatever its purpose, if the job of oozing oomph is done, you have hit a home run! Of course, the Pulsar makes sure it does this loud and clear. When the finest minds create timeless designs, icons are born and reign supreme for a lifetime.

While the Pulsars from 2001 introduced a butch, dominating design that India hadn't seen before, each iteration brought a design that many aped. Spawning a breed of motorcycles that wanted to be like the Pulsar. The latest renditions are futuristic, fresh and fast to grab your attention to say the least. This is what you get, when engineering, design, art & craftsmanship come together effortlessly.
