

WHAT CAN YOU DO WITH A BUDGET VR HEADSET?

VR for everyone

Ali Akbar Merchant | ali@digit.in

The neat thing about virtual reality is that it does not have to cost an arm and a leg or “₹1.7 lakh” as my esteemed Managing Editor likes to say. It can actually be quite wallet-friendly and something pretty much anyone with a smartphone can experience. You may not be able to play some of the VR games that require dedicated controllers and elaborate setups, but apart from those, budget VR headsets can provide more than enough bang for your buck if you know where to look in the virtual world.

First of all, let's establish what constitutes a “budget” VR headset. For the purposes of this feature, we will keep it simple and say that any headset that can accommodate a smartphone to experience some VR, falls in this category. We chose this method because there are a ton of headsets out there that fit this criteria with most of them being extremely affordable and even the ones with more features are nowhere close to the cost of the full-fledged VR headsets like the Oculus Quest 2 or the HTC Vive. These headsets are also extremely accessible thanks to their availability on e-commerce websites like Amazon.

So, let's get to all the cool stuff you can do in VR without spending too much dough on the headset.

GOING TO THE MOVIES

A visit to the cinema is undeniably fun. The excitement of watching a movie that you have been following since the first trailer dropped, going with your friends or family and of course getting yourself some of the overpriced snacks. But apart from the overpriced snacks, cinema-going also has a few downsides like random babies crying in the middle of your favourite scenes, some schmuks showing up after the movie starts which ruins the experience for the rest and sometimes not getting to sit in the most optimal viewing seats. VR has a solution for you there though. You can enjoy a movie in the cinema hall in the comfort of your own home. Apps like CINEVR give you a unique VR cinema experience with different theatre styles from the colosseum, beachside screenings, drive-ins, spaceships or just the vanilla style theatres.

EXPLORE

Exploring the world is probably something we all aspire to do, but

