

THIS IS TECHNOLOGY, CULTURE AND SCIENCE WITH A DIFFERENCE, AND THAT DIFFERENCE IS USUALLY ENOUGH TO MAKE MOST NORMAL PEOPLE GO "WTF?"

This month in ALT:

In Geek-key, we check out the coolest Bat-tech. Next in DGT, we explore some cool tech, tinker around with gadgets, and review everything we've watched this month. Finally, we speak to Intel about XeSS.

"Someone stop the pain please"

Volkswagen CFO predicts the chip shortage will make its way well into 2024: Arno Antlitz recently said that it is highly unlikely for the chip shortage to reach a stable stage with pre-COVID prices and supplies before 2024. He did say however, that a few issues might start easing up towards the end of 2022 and production reaching 2019 levels next year.

WHAT'S NEW

Musk asks if Twitter HQ should be turned into a homeless shelter

Only a few days after revealing his stake in the Social Media Giant, Twitter, Elon Musk put up a poll on the same asking people on the site as to whether or not the app's headquarters in San Francisco should be converted into a homeless shelter. The tweet, which is now deleted, said "Convert Twitter SF HQ to homeless shelter since no one shows up anyway" with two options to choose from, Yes or No. Before the tweet was deleted, it had well over 6.6 lakh votes with about 91% saying yes. The reason behind the tweet being deleted hasn't been disclosed but seems very apparent. Musk also put up a poll about adding an edit button to Twitter; which Twitter has actually confirmed that they are indeed working on one.

Meta working on a digital currency supposedly called "Zuck Bucks"

Meta, The parent company of Facebook and WhatsApp, is reportedly working on a new project of its own labelled "Zuck Bucks". Many think that Zuck Bucks are going to be a cryptocurrency however, it is highly unlikely as the Financial Times reported that Zuck Bucks are more likely to work as in-app tokens like V-Bucks on Fortnite or Robux in Roblox.

Zuck Bucks also came in right after Meta dropped its cryptocurrency project Diem this year. A spokesperson from the company said that Meta was continuously looking for and considering new products to be added to their lineup of apps and services to be offered to the general public and corporations. They also said that they were very focused on building for the metaverse which also includes what payments and financial services would look like.

Reportedly, Meta's virtual currencies are coming in a few different variants. Including tokens for people actively contributing to Facebook groups and coins for creators on Instagram.

R.I.P. Coffin meme, you will be missed

The Coffin meme from Ghana has been sold as an NFT for $1.04 million: The video featuring Ghanaian pallbearers dancing while carrying a coffin to its grave has been sold as an NFT for $1.04 million. The pallbearers will be donating 50% of the income to a Ukrainian charity.

Fisherman finds a baby-dragon looking creature!

A Russian fisherman recently posted a picture of a Chimaera, a cartilaginous fish also known as the "Ghost Shark" which took the Internet by storm. The creature was a light pink shade with big eyes and fins that resembled wings on each of its sides accompanied by a tail.

Three businessmen pay $55m each for a 10 day trip to the International Space Station

SpaceX launched 3 businessmen along with an ex-NASA astronaut to the ISS. The guests are set to stay at the US portion of the ISS for 8 days during which they will conduct 25 science experiments.